

The Gifts of Christmas

The spirit of giving is particularly present in the Christmas season and the 15th-anniversary series, "The Gifts of Christmas," is an interpretation of 15 classic and eternal gifts of Biblical history. Written by a lay author and university professor, the stories are non-denominational and have been approved by clergy of all faiths.

The Gift of God

By JOHN J. STEWART
First of a Series

With heavy heart old Father Abraham plodded his way up Mount Moriah, his little son Isaac by his side: Isaac, dearer to him than life itself. And now God had commanded him to offer Isaac as a sacrifice.

As they walked along together, carrying a knife, a stick of fire, and a cord of wood, the puzzled boy asked his father, "Where is the lamb for a burnt offering?"

The trusting lad's question pierced deep into Abraham's tortured soul. Tears flooded the old man's eyes. "My son, God will provide Himself a lamb for a burnt offering."

Quickly the anguished father built the sacrificial altar, laid his protesting son upon it and raised the knife high to slay him. But at that moment, having proved his faithfulness and obedience even in so great a test, Abraham was released by God from the command to sacrifice his son.

Yet God Himself suffered that which He spared Abraham. To satisfy the demand of eternal justice, to redeem a world fallen into sin, God offered as a sacrifice His first-born and beloved Son, Jesus, His only begotten in the flesh.

"Behold the Lamb of God."

Into a world of sin and sorrow did He have Him come, born in lowly circumstance, to descend below all things: Jesus the Christ, the one perfect Being, who alone could atone for the sins of man.

"For God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life."

Even would the Father see Him hang upon the cross. "Behold my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased."

This supreme gift did a loving Father give to His children, that they—each—might each have the privilege of eternal life. This was the first great gift of Christmas.

Lost Trappers Found by Indians

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)—Two trappers, missing since Dec. 1 in the treacherous country around Philip Lake in the Fort St. James area, were found Wednesday, exhausted, cold and hungry but otherwise well.

Paul Antoine and Frank Peter Dennis were found by two Indian trappers who set out on their trail.

FUELED BACK

The trappers said the men had given up hope and had turned back to their cabin when only 400 yards from a road that would have led them out of the wilderness.

The men, unfamiliar with the area, knew of the road but not its exact location.

The two had been the object of an intensive air-ground search—including a snowmobile—since they failed to rendezvous with a plane that was to have picked them up at Philip Lake Dec. 1.

LOST WAY

Police said the trappers decided to walk out without waiting for the plane and lost their way. They said they did not know why the men had not waited for the plane.

They will be flown back to Fort St. James, 75 miles northwest of here.

RIVER PACT PRICE SET?

OTTAWA (CP)—Columbia River negotiators have agreed on a report to be submitted to the Canadian, British Columbia and United States governments, it was announced Wednesday night at the end of a three-day bargaining session.

External Affairs Minister Martin said he agrees with the proposition that if the three governments accept this report—which mainly concerns a U.S. purchase price for a big block of power—then the way is cleared for a start on the multi-million-dollar hydro and flood-control project.

PRESS STATEMENT

A press statement said: "The discussions dealt with several major points concerning arrangement for the sale of Canadian downstream (power) benefits for financing the development of the Columbia River in Canada."

"After three days of discussions, during which substantial progress was made, the negotiators are in general agreement on a report that will be submitted now to the governments concerned."

NEXT WEEK

"Working parties are to meet in the course of the next week to draft the necessary documents for consideration at a further meeting of the delegations in Ottawa on Dec. 20."

Mr. Martin, who headed the federal bargaining team, said a lot of highly technical data needs further attention but there was general agreement on the points discussed in the last three days.

PROPOSED PRICE

He declined to reveal what those points are or what the proposed price will be for the planned power sale which would finance three storage dams in B.C., costing more than $400,000,000.

"Price obviously was considered and we are in agreement in the report to be made to the governments," he said.

EQUALLY CAUTIOUS

Lands Minister Ray Williston, who headed the B.C. bargaining team, and Ivan B. White, minister at the U.S. embassy who was the senior American representative, were equally cautious.

Mr. Williston, answering a question, said his optimism about the Columbia over the years has become diluted but

Fantastic Panorama

250,000 Cheer Free Kenya

NAIROBI (Reuters)—Kenya became independent today after 68 years of British rule.

The Union Jack was lowered at 12:01 a.m. and the country's new black, green, red and white flag was hoisted in its place.

The flag-raising ceremony heralded in deepened celebration three hours of celebrations staged before 250,000 persons in Independence Stadium four miles from downtown Nairobi.

EVERY CORNER

The festivities began with a massed display of tribal dancing. More than 1,200 dancers from every corner of Kenya, who had been preparing for months for the occasion, produced a fantastic panorama of color, movement and sound in the flood-lit arena.

Part of the dancing had to be

EARTH GULPS MEN, HOMES

ST. JOACHIM DE TOURELLE, Que. (CP)—Four brothers were killed Wednesday when an earth movement swallowed three houses, knocked out a concrete highway bridge and sent four other houses into the St. Lawrence River, police said.

Cave-In Body Recovered

BELLEVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Rescuers Wednesday night recovered the body of one of two men believed buried for nearly seven hours under a sewer trench cave-in. The dead man was identified as Patrick Black, about 24, of Belleville. Still missing in Douglas, Cronkright, also of Belleville.

Const. Martin Gauthier said a hole about a half square mile opened in the earth and a truck and a car fell into a pit "150 feet deep."

The truck disappeared but rescuers took a man and a woman out of the pit with ropes. They had been in the car.

Gauthier said three houses had fallen into the pit and like the truck were covered with thick grey mud.

SEA OF MUD

The top of one of the houses could be seen.

Gauthier said the Tournelle Creek became a sea of mud and carried four more houses into the St. Lawrence River.

Fishermen in three boats rescued at least six people from the houses. It was believed there were no lives lost in the houses.

Officials said an expert called to the area after a barn was swallowed up last summer indicated there was an underground lake.

The 50-foot bridge spanned a creek about 1,000 feet from the big river.

Country-of-Origin Legislation Pressed

WASHINGTON (CP)—Canadian lumber exported to the United States would have to be marked with the country of origin under legislation approved Wednesday by a special closed-door conference of key Senate and House of Representatives committees.

Despite protests by the Canadian government, this proposal was quickly approved by the conferees as part of a bill which will force importers to mark products with the country of origin on all imports each time the products are re-packaged for sale in the U.S.

The bill goes before the Senate and House for final approval—in this case a technicality—before it is placed before President Johnson for implementation.

He will have 10 days to exercise a veto if he so desires, starting from the day he receives the legislation. A similar bill, without the lumber attachment, was vetoed by former president Eisenhower in 1960.

'Restrictive' Law Would Hit Canada

VANCOUVER (CP)—Proposed American legislation requiring a country-of-origin marking on lumber imports would cause a general rise in the price of all lumber in the United States, a spokesman for a major Canadian forest industries firm said Wednesday.

E. G. Shorter, vice-chairman of MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Limited, described the bill as restrictive legislation aimed specifically at Canadian lumber.

In a statement, he said the legislation could have a most serious impact on exports of Canadian lumber to the U.S.

Real Andy Capp the Best

He has never come within winking distance of a kitchen sink. He has been known to blow smoke in the face of a snooker opponent about to pot the black. He flings a look of acute disinterest at any tradesman arriving with a bill — and points to his misadventure. Reginald Smythe, born 46 years ago in a tiny terraced house in Hartlepool, is a slight, wiry Georgie brimming with candor, confidence and cussed charm.

He is also creator of Andy Capp. Six years ago Reg broke his holiday in Hartlepool, returned to the Mirror office in London and drew the first Andy, a left-handed (like Reg himself), pot-bellied layabout, belligerent spokesman for Britain's new leisure class. Boozey, broke and lovable, Andy has become the nation's most successful cartoon export. He appears in 170 newspapers in 31 countries and 13 languages. Admired by fellow artists as much as he is loved by the millions who follow him from Istanbul to Baltimore, Reg Smythe has been acclaimed the Feature Cartoonist of the Year by the Cartoonists Club for the third year running. The Sunday Observer once wrote: "No assessment of the state of Britain is complete without reference to Andy." This shook Reg as much as it would have astonished Andy. Reg, a simple, kindly man, who hasn't read a book since Wind in the Willows when he was 10, is brutally candid about himself.

"I didn't know there was any social significance in Andy until the eggheads told me."

WAS JEALOUS
Says Reg: "It's funny, I know, but I was jealous of Andy Capp in the early days. I grew pale in his shadow and hated it when people used to call me Andy. I've got over all that now."

"I don't dislike Andy at all. He's been very good to me, you see."

Your Good Health

Twin Has Organs Transposed And None Knows the Reason

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: I have " situs inversus," my internal organs being transposed or on the wrong side.

About 25 doctors have examined me in the last few years, mostly out of curiosity. They were all amazed and some didn't believe my heart beats on the right side.

How often does this occur? What causes it? I am a fraternal twin. Does this have anything to do with it?—N. V.

Yours is a very rare condition — heart on the right side, liver on the left, and so on.

Being a twin seems to have some bearing, but nobody knows exactly why. Left-handedness is one possibility that has been observed. A clockwise (reverse) hair whorl is another.

It is a developmental quirk, and that's about as good an explanation as we have.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a 12-year-old boy who wets the bed every night unless I get him up, and sometimes he does anyway. A pediatrician said he will outgrow it. I have also been told to give him powdered milk and salt-peter mixed with sugar every night until he stops. Do you recommend this? — MRS. L. T.

No. There is no reason why such a mixture would help. It might be harmful, besides being a foul-tasting concoction. Your son has some urinary condition, or else a psychological quirk of some sort.

Dear Dr. Molner: In our family living class we were studying syphilis and gonorrhea, and were stumped by one question: Do these diseases have any relation to cancer? Could they become cancerous in time? — G. C.

No, there is no relationship to cancer. But they do enough damage otherwise to require immediate treatment. In time, syphilis in particular can cause damage to various organs of the body, the heart and the brain being notable examples.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is drinking of milk from one's own tested cows safe enough without pasteurization?—MRS. G. S.

No. Always pasteurize. Why? Because a herd that is perfect today may not be safe tomorrow. Tuberculosis, I agree, is not likely to appear overnight, but there has to be some time at which the change from "safe" to "not safe" occurs. And that isn't the only risk. Typhoid germs can occur here and there, in some way, the herd encounters impure food or water. Brucellosis (causing infectious abortion in cattle, and undulant fever in humans) is still another risk.

"Let's not leave it 'til Christmas Eve"

The timely delivery of greetings is important. So, right here and now, we wish you all the Joy and Happiness at Christmas and Success in the New Year.

This wish comes to you from the Distillers of Black & White Scotch Whisky... the superb Scotch so appreciated by friends and guests.

$150,000, 'Weasel' Netted In Great Train Robbery

LONDON (CP)—Sacks containing £50,000 ($150,000) in bills, believed to be part of the loot from August's nearly £3,000,000 great train robbery, were found Wednesday in a telephone booth in south London.

The bills were in £1 and £5 denominations, the same as those taken in the ambush-robbery of a mail train bound for London last August.

Police were sent to the telephone booth after a telephone tip.

Another new development in the case came Tuesday when

Mayor Under Fire On French Issue

OTTAWA (CP)—Mayor Charles Whitton of Ottawa came under fire in the Commons Wednesday from Quebec MPs who objected to her stand that the city administration has no legal ground to use French officially.

Leon Baker (PC—Trois-Rivières) asked Prime Minister Pearson if the government is considering a federal district like Washington for the Ottawa-Hull area in view of the mayor's "medieval attitude to bilingualism."

Mr. Pearson said he could not characterize the mayor's attitude as medieval because then "most educated people spoke Latin as well as their own language." The question of a federal district had been considered in the past and no doubt would be considered in the future.

Jean-Pierre Côté (L—Longueuil) asked Mr. Pearson if Miss Whitton would be appointed to the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism.

His barb was applauded by a group from the French Youth Association of Ontario seated in the public gallery. Speaker Allan MacNaughton reminded the young men that demonstrations are forbidden in the Commons galleries.

Honor Libelled, Two Men Fined

PARIS (Reuters)—The Paris appeals court Wednesday fined an industrialist and the director of a newspaper for libelling the Legion of Honor.

The industrialist, Edouard Michaud, was fined 500 francs ($100) and Henry Smadja, director of the newspaper Combat, 1,500 francs ($300).

Michaud, who won the Legion of Honor, as a Second World War resistance fighter, wrote a letter about it being too easily awarded in Algeria.

The letter, published in Combat, said: "I have never machine-gunned women and children. I have never tortured. I have never cut the throats of French officers nor forced back refugees. I therefore have done nothing to deserve the Legion of Honor."

Robert Kennedy Linked To Kidnap 'Arrest'

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago American says a suspected kidnapper of singer Frank Sinatra Jr. was reported arrested as a result of "a behind-the-scenes strategy worked out under the personal direction of Attorney-General Robert Kennedy."

In Washington the justice department said it knew of no arrest in the Sinatra case.

Using Head

Some motorists use split tennis balls to keep trailer hitches from rusting when not in use, but John McClane, of Oakridge, Oregon, believes in using his head—a doll's head, that is—on his car, a somewhat jolting, first-look experience for the more sensitive folk in his hometown. —(AP Photofax)

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (Reuters)—Three masked men of the Internal Liberation Movement walked into the central radio station here Wednesday, tied up the director and broadcast a recorded message attacking the head of state, Col. Oswaldo Lopez Arellano, and two high court judges.

THE MODERN ERA The modern era of North American expressways began in 1940 with the opening of the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

LONG SEARCH

Co-operative Canadian-U.S. development of the turbulent Columbia River has been sought since the mid-1940s and seemed certain in early 1961 when the two countries signed a 60-year treaty.

Since then, B.C. has decided to sell its share of power provided in the U.S. by Canadian river control and use the money to finance the three dams.

LATEST PHASE

The latest phase of negotiations began under the federal Liberal government five months ago. Involved have been studies to determine a fair price. Premier Bennett of B.C. has stipulated a rate of five mills a kilowatt hour or "equivalent"—which could include low U.S. interest rates on financing funds.

Young Sinatra Feels Fine

the details of his son's release in telephone calls here and in Nevada cities.

The case finally broke early Wednesday.

At 1:55 a.m. Sinatra and three men raced out of his ex-wife's mansion here and disappeared up the street in a car with its lights out—to fool onlookers en route to deliver the ransom.

HOURLY LATER

An hour later the 19-year-old Sinatra Jr., whose ambition is to be a singing success like his father, was free.

Sinatra Jr. said he was kept blindfolded all the time he was held and kept part time in car trunks. He had been captive for 54 hours.

The youth was appearing at a lodge on Lake Tahoe, Nev., when two men kidnapped him Sunday night from a Stateline, Calif., motel room.

SKI CLOTHES

The pair, dressed in ski clothes, left the singer's room—male bound and gagged and Sinatra flew back to southern California Tuesday night.

The money had been raised Tuesday by Sinatra's associates and friends in a bank.

It was dropped by a courier at a Los Angeles service station in the pre-dawn darkness. Details of the drop were not disclosed.

CALLS START

Monday the calls began to come to Sinatra's hotel room at Reno, Nev., the nearest big city to Lake Tahoe. He drove to Carson City, Nev., Tuesday, took mysterious phone calls at out-of-the-way service stations and worked out the deal the kidnappers asked.

After a conversation between Sinatra and FBI men, roadblocks set up by police officers around the Reno-Tahoe area were relaxed—apparently to let the kidnappers head for a Hollywood rendezvous.

The Civic Polls

ON THE BASIS of past records, a light vote could be anticipated today in Victoria's civic elections. That has generally been the experience in similar circumstances. In 1957 for instance with aldermen and trustees to be elected and a bylaw and a referendum to be voted on, less than 28 per cent of eligible voters cast ballots.

There is no mayoralty contest, Mayor Wilson being deservedly returned by acclamation.

There have been no campaign fireworks, although there are a fitting number of candidates.

The money bylaw for the construction of new magistrate's court facilities and renovation of the police headquarters has not been surrounded by controversy, nor are there any major issues of policy.

All this must be recognized and granted, and it is not to be thought that grass-roots democracy is in danger if the turnout is poor.

Yet it is not fair and just recognition of those who offer their services on council and the school board to let them be chosen by a small minority. Whether they are elected or not, they are doing much more than their ordinary duty as citizens, and deserve more in appreciation than an apparent, "Who cares?"

For this neighborly reason alone, it is to be hoped that more voters will bestir themselves than recent civic history would indicate to be likely.

Slips of the Tongue

SOME MPs have been needlessly disturbed because President Johnson omitted Mr. Pearson's name in citing the various foreign personages he will receive shortly at the White House.

The new American president has so many initial visits to cope with he can be excused for making a slip.

There is less excuse perhaps for his press secretary, who in rectifying the omission described Mr. Pearson as the "foreign minister" of this country. He has been at the White House long enough to be in no doubt who is the current prime minister of Canada, especially in view of the unusual U.S. attention paid to the federal election of last April.

This was probably also a slip of the mind and tongue, but it does suggest, along with other wrongful identity references made on occasion across the line, that in the U.S. not as much knowledgeable interest is taken in its closest ally and neighbor as should be warranted.

At least in high-level circles it would seem it should be beyond mistake who is the government leader of this country.

A Requirement

CENSORSHIP is one of the things that nobody likes much, although a little thought soon makes one realize that society would be in a pretty pickle if everyone just did as he pleased.

This would be licence, not liberty. Liberty calls for restraint, responsibility, an awareness that personal freedom must not be harmful to others. No state can function if this is not so.

The B.C. Civil Liberties Association is thus far wide of the mark when it says there should be no laws at all against pornography or obscenity. Materials of this nature, whether by publication or scribbled on lavatory walls, may not necessarily be criminal but they assuredly constitute depravity, even if the association does not seem to think so.

Censorship of literary forms is always a difficult matter, and there can be pros and cons about certain works, but on balance this restraint keeps society free of the filth that would result if there were no laws against obscenity.

Even as it is material of pornographic character abounds, and to the detriment of society as a whole. In the main also this kind of publication is pursued only for the personal gain of those who deal in it, careless of any harmful effects it may have.

In any case obscenity no matter how exhibited is repugnant to the majority of people and thus an offence against society. It is surprising to see it defended in any shape or form.

Unfortunately, far from censorship being "absurd" in this connection, human nature has made it a requirement forced on nations since ancient times.

One trembles to envisage the wholesale flood of pornography were liberty to be abused by a licence that permitted no restraint against it.

'Collectivo' Bus System

Greater Victoria municipalities seem to be worried by the possibility of the provincial government turning over the money-losing bus system to the municipalities. I don't think that the bus system needs to be a money-losing enterprise. I would like to make a few suggestions:

Get together with taxi and other such personal carrier companies to form a united transportation system.

Introduce the "Collectivo" system and let them operate in districts, each district having a main terminal.

Use buses only between terminals with no other stops (express buses).

Have no district stops; the "Collectivo" will go anywhere in the district and stop anywhere within, but always going past the district terminal if a person wants to go to another district; in other words, terminal bound people have priority.

The express buses would have to travel in different routes but all going through a super terminal downtown.

Standardize to simplify maintenance.

The "Collectivos" could be made up out of the taxis and gradually changed to small buses. The fare charged by the "Collectivos" would go according to distance but not exceeding a dime, for instance.

A Disgrace

I have always been puzzled by the striking difference between the schools in the old neighborhoods and the ones in the suburbs. They may be under the jurisdiction of the same school board, but that is the only thing they have in common. As a child's first school experiences are the most important, it behooves us to really look at our oldest elementary schools. North Ward, Beacon Hill, and South Park. Of the three, North Ward is the worst and a disgrace to us. And I do not think we can excuse our neglect of the children who live in these areas by saying that every city has its old and new schools. I also wish it to be understood that my remarks only concern the school plant, and having nothing to do with the teaching staff who do the best they can.

I understand that a new school construction referendum is being planned for the spring of 1964. At least, North Ward's replacement should be included, but not on its present site. A new school should be considered only as a part of the Blanshard redevelopment which was recommended to the Victoria city council in November, 1961 by the Capital Region Planning Board.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes, and ships, and sealing wax..."

By TOM TAYLOR

AT THE back of my mind I had a notion those astronauts weren't sent into the sky to admire the sunsets, or to pave the way for cheap travel trips some day in the future. It was the military implication behind them that's been bothering me.

Now I see the U.S. air force is to develop a manned laboratory to orbit the earth. It's described as an "insurance program."

So that manned space war ships can be sent aloft if the need arises.

Heavens above. Can't a quarrelling mankind limit its disputes to the earth? It's bad enough there but what dreadful vision this puts before us: the skies raining death from unseen agencies miles in the sky.

Russia will follow suit, of course, and there could be the devil to pay if aerial frigates, destroyers and battleships roam the paths of space.

The best insurance would be to have the U.N. ban all such solar vehicles of destruction before they are built. Here's one field of disarmament that should be easy, since the armament isn't yet there.

As I write this three bowls of fern have been placed on the rock islands of the fountain intersection. I suppose it's a test to see how they will decay and there'll be more to follow.

I hope not, though. As a dilution of the barren rocks of Eden, as it were, they leave a lot to be desired. One could fancy them to be flying saucers somehow left behind or ready to take off. They have an accidental look.

Anyway they'll do little to correct the drabness which has shocked Victoria by this venture in civic improvement.

Why can't the city fathers admit their mistake and cart the boulders away holus-bolus. They should take a tip from their own Pandora Blanshard corner, which is a nice example of the planning effect to be contrived from green and flowering shrubs.

Their stubbornness about this aspect of the fountain design changes is perhaps the most surprising feature of the whole affair.

Thinking well up in the parlance of "mickies" I always thought you carried in your back pocket.

When a "fin" is added to the term, wherever it came from, it becomes a knockout drop enough even to knock out a pugilist very good at the knockout himself.

With his fists.

Jack Dempsey wasn't exactly knocked out by Gene Tunney in the famous ring battle of 1926 revived spectacularly this week by the sports realm, but ringfighters were stunned when he lost the fight.

Now, 37 years after, it is said Dempsey was doped by a "Mickey Finn" in his breakfast coffee the morning of this classic encounter.

The story isn't any too clear and Dempsey himself doesn't seem too disturbed about it, and, as we know, he lost his second bout with Gene Tunney. That was the fight of the disputed "long count," however, so the fates were running against him, apparently.

The "Mickey Finn" will make him more glamorous than ever, for it gives posterity something to wonder about when his ring record is recalled.

And it adds an intriguing "it" to the roped square called a ring.

In this context, the personal courage of our leaders is their own and the country's enemy. It is natural for any decent man to shun protection not available to his fellow men. It is natural for any politician to avoid the petty carping that obvious protective measures might inspire. But after the Kennedy assassination, it would be a reckless partisan indeed who would criticize adequate security measures for a prime minister.

The brutal fact is that quite apart from personal considerations, so much rests upon the prime minister's leadership that it might well be disastrous if it were suddenly removed at a time of crisis. The Americans at least have provision for an automatic succession to the presidency. But under our system, government could be paralyzed for a matter of days, if no longer, while a new leader was chosen. Living, as we do, in the brooding presence of pushbutton catastrophe, this is not a possibility to be taken lightly.

The possibility of assassination is not the only hazard to which our leaders are unnecessarily exposed. Indeed, from a flooring specialist or a telephone company. They improve the image of the corporation as a public spirited promoter of the nation's cultural growth. Noah was just far enough removed from the odors of the fishmongers as honest men of commerce with impeccable taste.

But most commendable of all, they offered their public honest entertainment. I admit that in Noah the players were actors, not fishmongers, but they got the show on the road and acted.

And this simple accomplishment is beginning to be a refreshing novelty in television entertainment.

The great new entertainment gimmick is gay conversation among people whose talent may or may not be singing, dancing, acting or juggling—according to your standards—of whom it can be said that these are the things they do for a living.

Everybody TALKS.

If the days should ever return when a megaphone thrust master of ceremonies comes on and bawls: "Ladies and Gentlemen: Next Tony Bennett. He sings." It will seem almost original. If the MC leaves it there and the fellow really sings. Bring 'em on, let 'em perform, get 'em off and bring on the next one: this is the way we want it.

They sat around Arthur Godfrey the other night and simulated a company of Thanksgiving celebrants on a homey occasion; shattering their own and our stuffed gizzards with gay chatter. All that synthetic laughter, the tossings of female heads to show the throat and roll the hair.

While I can have the editorial writers of the New York Times for 10 cents every morning I don't need the political judgments of the cowboy leads on Bonanza. Harry Belafonte is an artist when he sings. When he injects his views on race into an entertainment he is a bore, a pompous and wordy bore in fact, but a bore in principle anyway because I only want to hear him when he sings.

Courage an Enemy

Security for the Prime Minister

By GEORGE HOGAN

THE assassination of President Kennedy is a chilling reminder of the extent to which we impose upon the courage of our leaders. Fortunately, in almost every case, this courage is of a high order.

In Canada, we have been remarkably lucky. No Canadian prime minister has ever been assassinated, nor, as far as I can recall, has any ever been exposed to a serious attempt. This record is indeed extraordinary in the light of the inadequate security measures taken to protect our country's leaders.

Perhaps there have been some changes since the times when I was associated with a prime minister. I hope so. But my recollection is that while the protective force might have been adequate to prevent people picnicking on the prime minister's lawn or stealing his car, it would be unlikely to prevent a really determined attempt on his life.

I think our freedom from tragedy is very deceiving. Relative to our population, I am quite sure we have just as many nuts and cranks as the United States or any other country. Who can tell when, from this army of unknown crackpots, there will emerge a Lee Oswald ready to translate his muddled mutterings into tragic action?

In this context, the personal courage of our leaders is their own and the country's enemy. It is natural for any decent man to shun protection not available to his fellow men. It is natural for any politician to avoid the petty carping that obvious protective measures might inspire. But after the Kennedy assassination, it would be a reckless partisan indeed who would criticize adequate security measures for a prime minister.

'See Walter'

Chief Cook

By WILLIAM G. WHITE
from Washington

FRANKLIN Roosevelt had his Harry Hopkins, Dwight Eisenhower his Sherman Adams and John F. Kennedy his Theodore Sorensen. Each—Hopkins, Adams, Sorensen—was the man closest to the president of his time.

Lyndon Johnson will not have a Hopkins, an Adams, a Sorensen, because while he will take more advice from more people and more kinds of people than any president of recent times, both ultimate decision and ultimate action will be his personal products to a degree also not seen in recent times.

But President Johnson will have the presently untitled—and possibly never to be fully titled—Walter Jenkins.

When Mr. Johnson was Senate majority leader and later vice-president, Walter Jenkins—the president often calls him thus, as though his Christian and family names were compressed and subjoined—was principal administrative assistant. The job covered everything: keeping an eye on Johnson's political interests everywhere; assisting the majority leader in every form of problem in the Senate and later every problem in the vice-presidency; keeping in some touch with the private affairs of the Johnsons put in trust so that there can be no suggestion of conflict of interest.

Jenkins was "chief of staff," to use a not very descriptive term to denote an indispensable man.

Now, this is what he is to Mr. Johnson as president—or, in the old colloquial expression, he is chief cook and bottle washer. He attends the super-secret National Security Council. He is in the same time far from inattentive to all domestic political and legislative problems. And if Mrs. Johnson needs help or advice, and her own assistant, Mrs. Elizabeth Carpenter, feels the need of consultation, a small summit meeting may ensue with Jenkins as Mrs. Carpenter's opposite number. He is, in short, the man about whom the peculiar telling phrase is this: "See Walter about it."

Well, what manner of man is Jenkins? The answer coming first to mind is that he is simply the kind of man who is in and in memory seems always to have been there. He is as quiet as Sorensen. He is as executive-minded as was Sherman Adams but never gives the impression he is either running things or trying to.

He works at a furious pace which, because of his downplayed personality, paradoxically seems almost hesitant. He is usually gentle; but very far from lamblike.

He is a compact, slightly florid-faced man of 47, with heavy, dark and slightly graying hair. He is a deeply conscientious man whose worries settle in his stomach rather than show on his face. Like most strenuously "doing" men, he is nervous. The condition is not helped at the moment by what he calls, with a wry smile at the pretentiousness of the jargon, "the symptoms of withdrawal." That is, he is trying to quit cigarettes—of which he was smoking far too many lately.

He is a Catholic from northwestern Texas—a rarity in that region of the state whereas it is a commonplace in the president's southwestern part of the state—and but for that fact would have been elected to Congress in a race made many years ago. He reads but is not bookish. He thinks and is in fact brilliant, but he would never call himself "intellectual."

There is no pretence of any kind in him. He has no "passion for anonymity," an attitude once attributed to some of the Roosevelt assistants. But in plain and simple truth he is a shy man who really doesn't like the klieg lights. He is not coy; he simply thinks he can work more effectively for President Johnson—as he did for Senator Johnson and Vice-President Johnson—without standing out in front.

He is, drawing no long bow about it, one of the ablest, most devoted, most truly moral but totally self-righteous public men this country has known for a long time. And in a profession where most men use sharp elbows on the way up, Walter Jenkins has never earned that those joints have any other use than to swing as he walks along.

Can Africans, Asians, Europeans Live in Harmony?

World Watches Kenya Experiment

By BARBARA WARD-JACKSON
from London

So many states have reached independence in the last decade that it is not always easy to summon up a proper sense of occasion to greet another new arrival on the world scene.

But in the case of Kenya, independent today, the achievement of nationhood is profoundly significant not simply for the country itself, but for its neighbors, for Africa and even perhaps for the world at large.

In some measure the land is a curious microcosm of our planetary life. All the climates, all the flora, all the wild life of the globe co-exist between the loess of Mount Kenya and the tropical coasts—pines and trout streams in the highlands, palm and arid laterite on the plains, cattle on the green slopes, lions among the tawny rocks.

And three great races—African, Asian and European—live side by side and face the tasks of freedom, at the moment when, by historical coincidence, the question of race has become a burning central issue in the world's political dialogue.

Few small states can have been launched on independence with such a freight of variety, possibility, risk and hope.

A smooth transition, reasonable harmony, hopeful prospects could revolutionize racial politics in Southern Africa. Full success in racial partnership would even bring a perturbed and questioning humanity to Kenya's door.

How hopeful are the prospects? If the question had been asked a year ago, there would have been no very reassuring reply.

Then it seemed that the extraordinary structure of Kenyan society had produced a completely irreconcilable conflict of interests. In the upper reaches, 60,000 Europeans held virtually all the managerial positions, ran much of the commerce, lived in the big houses, owned over 7,500,000 acres of land and on it produced four-fifths of the cash crops and virtually all the country's export income.

At the next level, mixing neither above nor below nor very much with one another, were some 200,000 Asians, filling up all the early runs of the ladder in commerce and administration—retail trade, small-scale produce-buying, clerical jobs.

Then came the Africans, over 8,000,000 of them, largely unskilled—the laborers, the subsistence farmers—divided by tribal hostilities, rooted in land hunger.

So explosive a combination had already produced Mau Mau. In 1961, with Europeans leaving, capital ebbing away and African politics dividing on tribal lines—in the Rift Valley and the coast in the Kenya African Democratic Union (KADU) opposed to the central provinces in the Kenya African National Union (KANU), while the Somalis claimed the right to secede in the north—a repetition of disaster seemed inevitable.

Yet independence has been launched in a mood of renewed confidence. If one cause more than any other can be singled out for change, it is the emergence of Jomo Kenyatta's KANU administration as a strong and conciliatory government.

Kenyatta used his new authority to reassure the worried settlers and the hesitant businessmen. His speech to the European farmers at Nakuru—which brought them to their feet in a standing ovation—seems to have been a turning point.

At the same time, in spite of threats of secession, Ngala has at least decided to give the new government time to reveal itself.

Is this simply a truce? Or can all Kenya's races rely on some degree of continuing political stability? The social "mix" after all, remains explosive.

Clam, wealth and opportunity follow racial lines still and at the bottom of the pyramid, particularly among the vigorous Kikuyu, two kinds of pressure intervene—the pressure for land and the pressure for work. No political system can peacefully survive more than a certain degree of such rooted discontent. The thousands of young men without jobs in Nairobi and the landless laborers beginning to squat on land only recently allotted to African farmers make up a formidable radical wing to any political movement.

The Kenyan government seems to have no illusions about these pressures. Its efforts to restore confidence among European farmers and businessmen are based on a perfectly realistic assessment of the economy's dependence upon their efforts.

A national youth service may be set up to absorb the urban youth.

A very large program of land settlement has been launched to follow up the success of the Swynnerton plan in settling Africans on consolidated economic holdings.

A million acres in the European areas are being purchased over these five years and a dedicated team of administrators are settling Kikuyu farmers with uncanny dispatch on farms varying from eight to 500 acres. Another million-acre scheme lies in the future. Meanwhile, cows and cash crops are being introduced into the holdings to ensure immediate income—and an immediate beginning to the peasants' payments for their new land.

But the cash crops are a reminder of how much Kenya's economic future lies outside governmental control. The two most promising commercial crops—coffee and pyrethrum—are in over-supply on the world market, and the peasant must cut his output just as he wants to expand it. Prospects for tea and sisal are more promising, but hitherto they have not been peasant crops.

And if agricultural prospects are uncertain, the outlook for industry is not much clearer. Kenya's light industries have expanded as the "growing point" of a whole East African common market.

If the drive for East African federation slackens under the pressure of Uganda's desire for a bigger stake—say, the federal capital at Entebbe—and Tanganyika's search for more industrial diversification, then Kenya could find itself with further industrial redundancy just when the need for wider employment has become even more acute.

If these external pressures on the Kenyan economy continue unchecked, the rising discontent of the dispossessed may force the government off its present course of conciliation and good will.

The wealthy Europeans, the Asian traders would become obvious targets for African discontent and a racialist tinge could be imparted to Kenyan politics—with fateful consequences for the race issue in Southern Africa and even farther afield.

At present, the Kenya government has not many resources with which to stimulate industrial activity—particularly in urban construction—or to diversify agriculture and maintain its extension services. The scale of debt repayment all but swallows up the existing level of external aid.

Yet the extra sums required are very small—£1,000,000, perhaps, for African housing in Nairobi, $6,000,000 for the tea industry over five years, about the same for farmers' loans in the settlement areas, £1,000,000 for public works drawing on the work of a youth corps.

These are not sums to ruin the combined resources of the Atlantic world.

And the investment they would represent in a humane and rational resolution of Kenya's racial conflicts could bring decisive results not only in Salisbury and even Pretoria, but conceivably in regions as remote as Georgia or Alabama.

It is rare in human history for a test case to seem so clear as it does in Kenya or the means of coping with it to be so readily available.

But in the Western world today, the issue, again and again, is not the availability of resources but the political vision needed to use them with generosity and speed.

Kenya offers an extraordinary opportunity. It is not yet clear that it will be seized in time.

Map locates Kenya, Britain's former multi-racial colony, which becomes an independent nation today.

Somali Issue Clouds Kenya Independence

Kenya enters independence today with a left-over from British rule which could well become the new nation's biggest problem.

This issue is the North-eastern Region, almost as big as England and Wales, but a barren desert-land with only 100,000 people, nearly all Somalis.

These are unwilling participants in Kenya's freedom, for they want independence under African rule.

The seriousness of what hitherto was merely a border dispute has been magnified by Russia's decision to lend the near-broke neighboring Somali Republic the sum of $33,000,000 to be used to build up a large army. Somalis claim they are arming 20,000 men.

Left on their own, the Somali nomads of North-east Kenya, would in time, have probably come to accept Nairobi rule as inevitable. However, goaded by a few fanatical leaders who take their orders from across the border, the Somalis have boycotted all elections organized by the Kenya Government and pointedly ignore the fact that Kenya now has an all-African Government ruled over by Prime Minister Jomo Kenyatta.

Britain has avoided any finality in the dispute over the barren territory which used to be known as the Northern Frontier District (NFD) and is now called the North-East

from Nairobi

Region, by making it clear that from now on the Somalis can argue it out with the Kenya Government in Nairobi. As one of the last gestures, former Colonial Secretary Reginald Maudling created a special area, inhabited entirely by Somalis, and promised that in this North-eastern Region the Somalis would enjoy a wide measure of local autonomy.

This, however, has proved unacceptable either to the Somalis in the area, or to the neighboring Somali government in Mogadishu which has been demanding cessation of an area consisting of more than a third of the whole of Kenya.

And, although Kenya has had an all-African Government for the past six months, the Somalis have pointedly refused to deal with it and have insisted on negotiating with Britain, via the Kenya Governor, Malcolm MacDonald.

But today the Governor relinquishes all executive power and the Somalis will have no alternative but to deal direct with the Kenya Government.

The entire area. Troops of the King's African Rifles have been sent to the chain of white-walled forts to reinforce the police.

Perhaps most serious of all are the nightly broadcasts from Radio Mogadishu which are crudely inflammatory. Night after night these incitements to open warfare have been directed by the Somali Government at Kenya's North-eastern region. Despite protests from Kenya, there has been no let-up.

Ironically, the agents of British Imperialism so regularly cursed in the broadcasts are the British District Commissioners and District Officers who have spent years in this barren area and who have come to understand the Somali viewpoint to a certain extent; even sympathizing with their aversion to being classed as "Africans."

The result is that today Kenya Government leaders find themselves in a dilemma. They would gladly dispense with the services of the British administrators in the North-eastern Region, but no African civil servant dares put a foot over the Tana River—the risk of a spear or a bullet in his back is too real to ignore.

And, humiliating though it will be to a Kenya independent of Britain, the African leaders will have to retain British administrators in the NFD for a long time to come—unless the United Nations provides an alternative.

Judge 'By Accident' To Hear Ruby Trial

By ROBERT H. JOHNSON JR.

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The biggest murder case before the world has landed in the court of a veteran judge who went to law school almost by accident.

The case is the trial of Jack Ruby, the strip-joint owner who shot down Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of President Kennedy. Ruby could get the death penalty.

The court is a tiny room with seats for only 25 spectators. It is in the county records building, at the intersection where President Kennedy was shot.

SOFT-SPOKEN

The judge is Joe B. Brown, 55, a big, slow-moving, soft-spoken man who likes a relaxed atmosphere in his state criminal district court. He enrolled in law school 32 years ago on a friend's casual suggestion.

Ruby's trial is scheduled for Feb. 3 and both sides have said they will be ready then.

Brown is acutely aware that the eyes of the world will be focused on his little courtroom if nothing happens to change the schedule.

COURT INFORMAL

Reporters and lawyers who regularly work in Brown's court say he runs it more informally than most state courts.

He permits spectators and principals to smoke. Only recently he and other district judges decided to wear judicial robes.

"The law is based on common sense," Brown says. "There isn't anything as technical but what the court can't explain it to the jury and witnesses. I don't want a stilted atmosphere."

AMONG FRIENDS

"I want the jury panel to be relaxed—to feel they are among friends. There's nothing mystic about a trial."

"All the jury has to do is handle the common sense end of the law; I'll take care of the technicalities. I want them to apply their human experience to the facts."

"Well, maybe you could call that informality. I don't look down my nose at the people in my courtroom."

MAINTAINS DIGNITY

"But I do strive to maintain dignity—and I do maintain it." Brown has lived almost all his life in Oak Cliff, a sprawling section separated from the rest of Dallas by the Trinity River.

rest of Dallas by the Trinity River.

The only time he left Dallas was to get a high school diploma from Gulf Coast Military Academy in Gulfport. He was graduated there in 1924.

RAILROAD JOB

He came back, worked here and there, and in 1926 got a job in the freight accounting department of Texas and Pacific Railroad.

"One evening after work in 1933, I was standing out in front of the building—it was a miserable hot evening in August—when a friend of mine came by. He said he was on his way to enroll in Jefferson University school of law."

"That sounds pretty good," I said. "How about my going with you?"

"Come on," he said, and I did.

Among the instructors was a young woman named Sarah T. Hughes—now, at 67, the federal district judge who administered the presidential oath of office to Lyndon B. Johnson on Nov. 22, the day of Kennedy's assassination.

TOOK OFFICE

He was graduated from Jefferson in June, 1934. He ran for justice of the peace of Oak Cliff precinct and won and took office on Jan. 1, 1935.

Brown served as a justice of the peace until 1944, when he was elected a county criminal judge. He was on that bench until 1957, when he ascended, again by election, to criminal district court.

Melvin Belli Ruby's Man

Defence: Razzle Dazzle

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Lawyer Melvin M. Belli is known as a man who has a way with words. Flamboyant, a man of letters and a student of modernism, he seems the personification of the famed Philadelphia lawyer.

Belli said in Dallas Tuesday he will help defend Jack Ruby, a night club operator there who will go on trial Feb. 3 for the murder of Lee Harvey Oswald, Oswald was the accused assassin of President John F. Kennedy.

ONLY LITTLE

Belli (pronounced Bell-Eye), 35, is a resident of San Francisco who maintains offices there and in Los Angeles. Even so, he says most of the people who call him only have little cases.

"But they're all entitled to a lawyer. I never can tell when a call in broken English is going to bring me a case that is going to make me a $100,000 fee."

BIG SUCCESS

His element is the courtroom, where he has enjoyed enormous success in personal injury damage suits. Belli and his associates, it is said, have won more than 100 judgments of more than $100,000 each, including a single record of $675,000. Suave, urbane and polished in private society, Belli takes some razzle-dazzle and earthy vigor into the courtroom.

OLD SKELETON

He delights in unearthing grotesque skeletons such as the old skeleton he calls Elmer and a department store window man. He is also fond of elaborate charts, maps, flow plans, aerial photographs and any other kind of visual aid or demonstration in the courtroom.

Italian Reds Lose Ground

ROME (UPI)—Italian Communists who gained more than 1,000,000 votes in last April's general elections, lost ground slightly to local voting last month, an official tabulation shows. The Christian Democratic Party moved ahead, the survey said.

YIELDS PLASMA

A new hermetic blood separator developed in Sweden yields 60-65 per cent plasma from whole blood.

"There is no law against interesting a jury," he once remarked.

Belli's personal appearance is striking. He is handsome, tending slightly to portliness, with wavy silver-grey hair and grey eyes.

He dresses elegantly, with a deliberate touch of the exotic. He buys his suits a half-dozen at a time in London's Saville Row.

IT ADDS UP

"They're not terribly expensive," he says, "but when you figure the trip over there and back, and three days on the Riviera, it adds up."

Belli's personal trademarks are his wine-red Italian velvet briefcase, his black heavy-plastic framed glasses and the black boots he always wears in court.

KEY TO SUCCESS

A key to his success in personal injury suits is his ready knowledge of anatomy and medicine.

"I came from a family of doctors," he explained. "Wherever I go—London, Rome, Vienna—I go to the hospitals. I go into the amphitheatres to watch the great surgeons."

Soviet Army Plans To Leave Hungary

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet army, which crushed the Hungarian revolution seven years ago, plans to leave Hungary in the next few months, diplomatic sources said Wednesday.

Only a few token units will be left behind under the Warsaw Pact agreement, the sources said.

President Kennedy

Remark on Hungary Denied by Salinger

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The White House Wednesday denied a report, attributed to Fidel Castro, that the late President Kennedy reminded Soviet Premier Khrushchev's son-in-law, in a discussion of Cuba, that the United States did not intervene when Russia put down the Hungarian revolt.

Castro was quoted as saying the alleged reminder led to establishment of Soviet missiles in Cuba.

FRENCH INTERVIEW

Press secretary Pierre Salinger said he was present last Jan. 30 at Kennedy's lunch interview with Khrushchev's son-in-law, Alexei Adzhub, editor of the Soviet government newspaper Pravda.

"I never heard the word Hungary brought up," Salinger said. He added that there were only six or seven people present and he would have heard any mention of Hungary if it had occurred.

AN INTERVIEW

The alleged Kennedy statement was referred to by Castro in an interview with Jean Daniel, a correspondent for the French newspaper L'Espresso, and the American magazine, New Republic.

Daniel quoted Castro as explaining that he requested Soviet missiles be installed on his island because he feared an invasion.

Now in Second Place

Dorohoy Sparks Mercurys

Suburban Mercurys, a new team since Eddie Dorohoy took over as playing coach, stormed into second place in the Victoria Senior Hockey League last night, coming from behind for a 5-4 victory over Victoria Cougars at Memorial Arena.

Trailing 3-0 at the end of the first period, Mercurys cut it to 4-2 after two, then scored three straight in the third to win. Leo Kosak made it 4-3 at 2:51 with his club short-handed. Dorohoy scored on a power play to tie it up at 7:31, and Kosak was back to win it one minute remaining.

All in all, it was a busy night for Dorohoy. He drew a misconduct penalty in the first period and a minor and major for a second-period fight with Cougars' Wayne Anderson, which produced maximum swinging and minimum damage.

In the opener, Safeway Canadians extended their lead to three points with a 4-2 win over Dorman's Cavaliers, getting their last goal on an empty net in the final seconds.

Rioting Soccer Fans To Be 'Nailed Good'

VANCOUVER (Special) — The Pacific Coast Soccer League is going to go after rioting soccer fans and "nail them good," president Bill Fidler warned last night.

Fidler said two police officers will be on duty at Callister Park for Sunday's game between Victoria United and Columbus and at all future games involving the Italian club. "Columbus is being victimized by a few of its fans causing all this trouble," Fidler said. "We're going out after them, and if the police make any arrests we'll prosecute. It's got to stop."

B.C. Referees' Association, which has had several members attacked at games involving the Columbus team, had threatened to go on strike if adequate protection was not awarded.

Ontario Youngsters Warned

Hockey Brawlers Bad Influence

TORONTO (CP) — "Keep it clean, do not emulate the rough-house tactics by professional players that you see on TV."
That's the warning issued to thousands of youngsters throughout the province by the Ontario Minor Hockey Association.
The caution comes as an aftermath of the Toronto Maple Leaf-Chicago Black Hawk brawl at Maple Leaf Gardens last Saturday night.

"The Toronto Maple Leafs and Chicago Black Hawks displayed the worst kind of hockey," said Gary McLeod of Toronto, OMHA secretary-treasurer, in his memo to managers, coaches and more than 30,000 players.

He said the National Hockey League did not improve its image as leaders, nor the players their status as the world's best in the game as a result of their conduct.
"We cannot blame the referees entirely for what happened," he added. "We do, however, feel that the players displayed a complete lack of discipline."

The rival coaches did not have control of their players.
Mr. McLeod said the OMHA has clamped down on rough hockey and will continue to do so. He warned that players who wind up too often in the penalty box "will find themselves under suspension for as many games as we think meets the need."

BEHIND THE GLASS

By Jim Tang

GOOD ENTRY: Many of the better curlers on the Pacific Coast will play at Allan's Curling Club on Saturday in a one-day cash bonspiel in which cash is not really the main attraction.

Each member of the winning rink will receive $25 and members of the rinks which lose in the final and win the second event will each take home $12.50. All curlers pay $3 for entry fee and for visiting curlers particularly, the reward is not attractively high.

However, the bonspiel provides a chance for skips to hone their Consols rinks, and this has to be the main attraction along with the chance of glory in coming out on top.

Seven visiting rinks, headed by provincial champion Glen Harper of Duncan and Lyall Dagg of Vancouver, will match shots with nine Victoria quartets. Ray Dagg and Dana Quinell of Vancouver, Don MacRae, Glen Phillips and Bob Dean of Nanaimo are the other visiting skips.

Representing Victoria are rinks entered by Gar Taylor, Don Moss, Al Moonie, Steve Hayhurst, Tony Gutsid, Jack Moir, Gordon Moore, Keith Dagg and Norm Richardson.

Action starts at 8 a.m. with Dean playing Moonie, Moss meeting Moir, Moore tangling with Hayhurst and Harper taking on Keith Dagg. At 10:15 a.m. it's Quinell vs. MacRae, Ray Dagg vs. Gutsid, Richardson vs. Phillips and Taylor vs. Lyall Dagg.

All first round winners play at 12:30 p.m. and the eight first-round losers play at 2:45. The quarter-finals of "B" event are at 5 with semi-finals in both events at 7:15 and finals at 8:45.

All rinks are assured of a minimum of two games with only the first and second-round losers in "A" event getting the chance to play in "B". Defeated semi-finalists in "A" are out of action.

MORE BIG ONES: Things may change if the Dominion Curling Association adopts its "code of ethics," which is doubtful, but in the meantime, big tournaments are increasing.

Calgary is set for its second run of the "Masters" early in January and already boasts of entries from Ernie Richardson, Garnet Campbell, Hec Gervais, Manitoba champion Harsh Lerner, Trail's Buzz McGibney, Winnipeg's Don Duguid and Calgary hotshots Jim McCullough, Nick Laahuk, Bernie Sparks and Jim Shields. Matt Baldwin and stylist Harold Winter are almost certain starters.

Tomorrow, Lloydminster opens in first tournament of champions and among entries are Baldwin, Gervais and top Saskatchewan rinks skipped by Gordie Hellelo, Glenn Richardson, Moe Valade and Stan Austman.

Then there is still another tournament of champions at Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens, Jan. 1-4, which is expected to draw rinks from all across Canada. At Toronto, incidentally, there will be no toss of a coin to decide who throws first rock. Instead, each rink will designate someone other than the skip to throw one rock. Sweeping will be allowed and the rock closest to the button will decide.

STILL WIDE OPEN: Ladies playdowns at the Victoria Curling Club are past the halfway point and the races are still wide open. Flora Martin leads the six-rink round-robin for the evening ladies with a 3-0 record with games left against Marg Sturrock and Judy Leibel, both 2-1. Marg Inglis and Mary Beattie still have mathematical chances with 1-2 records but Kay Trevelyan is out of it at 0-3.

The afternoon ladies show a three-way tie, at 3-1, between Doris Fraser, Renee Robbins and Edith Leach. Joan Turner is 2-2, Elsie O'Dell 2-3, Norah Dunstan 1-3 and Ruth Jackson, 1-4 and eliminated.

ENFORCE IT: Considerable stress at most clubs this season is being put on the keeping of the rule which says no part of the curler's body may cross the first hog line in the delivery of a rock.

Some Edmonton clubs have painted a "warning" line four feet inside the hog line in the hope it may help prevent overly-long slides. Whether or not a curler keeping his eyes on the broom, as he should be, will notice the extra line is a moot point. More to the point is that this is a half measure. What is wrong with enforcing rules? Only a direct method will stop the cheating slide.

EXTRA END: Annual Pacific Coast Curling Association boys' bonspiel will be held in Vancouver, Dec. 22-29 with action at the Hollyburn, North Shore, Capilano, Burnaby, Vancouver, Marpole and New Westminster clubs. The two divisions, 12-17 years and 17-19 years, are expected to draw more than 100 rinks. Consols playdowns at Victoria Curling Club start on Sunday, Dec. 22, with all rinks playing at 10 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. Canadian Legion curling finals are at Calgary, March 10-14. More than 8,000 curlers are expected to take part in provincial playdowns. Gordie Pyvis of Chilliwack and Tony Folk of White Rock won the "A" and "B" events, respectively, at the recent Merritt bonspiel. The ladies' division of the Victoria Curling Club will hold their annual Christmas party starting at 9 p.m. tomorrow. Whether or not it has been settled yet is not known here but there was a report that Matt Baldwin may have Herb Olson curling second rocks in provincial playdowns. Folk, who bested Garnet Campbell in the final of Vancouver's Grey Cup bonspiel, will enter playdowns with at least two members of his winning rink—vice-skip Jim Kilburn and lead Gene Klymchuk. Back from his honeymoon and with Dianna's permission, ready for Duncan playdowns as a member of Fred Duncan's rink is Herb Mould. One read that the Calgary Stampede Association, which operates the 48-sheet Big Four curling rink, netted more than $100,000 from curling last season.

FAN FARE

Mikita and Mates Riddle Rangers, 6-2

Bobby Hull scored the 200th goal of his National Hockey League career last night while Chicago Black Hawks were thrashing New York Rangers, 6-2, in New York, but he lost ground to teammate Stan Mikita in the scoring race.

Mikita fired three goals — his 15th, 16th and 17th of the season — and drew one assist to close to within two points of the pace-setting Hull, 39-37.

While Mikita was scoring, the other two members of the Scooter Line were also having a good night. Ab McDonald drew four assists and Ken Wharram got two goals and an assist in the rout while 12,530 New York fans jeered their last-place Rangers.

Goalie Glenn Hall was in great form for the Hawks, making 45 saves, including 20 in the last period. Only Rangers to beat him where two former Canadians, Phil Goyette and Don Marshall.

In getting their 19th win in 26 games, Hawks gained ground on Toronto Maple Leafs, the team supposedly their strongest opposition.

After handling the Hawks, 3-0, in Toronto Saturday, Leafs went up against a Detroit club minus five regulars and found the Wings too hot to handle, losing 3-1. It was Wings' first victory on the road this season.

Rookie Pit Martin, Andre

Pronovost and defenceman Ron Ingram scored for the Wings, who were without defencemen Doug Barkley and Bill Gadaby, centres Norra Ullman and Alex Faulkner, and winger Larry Jeffrey.

SAWCHUK STARS
But though they were short-handed, the Wings had Terry Sawchuk. Reports have it that Sawchuk is about to be replaced by rookie Roger Crozier as Detroit's regular goalie, but Sawchuk may have forestalled that last night, playing an excellent game and making 33 saves.

Leafs, looking ragged and not too interested, gave the puck away in their own end again and again, and seemed frustrated by the close Detroit checking.

STRAY PANS
Martin scored Detroit's first goal by grabbing a stray pass by Frank Mahovlich. George Armstrong tied it up on a power play in the second period, but Pronovost scored from Howe to give Wings the lead for keeps and Ingram scored early in the third.

Result left Wings in fourth place, three points ahead of the Rangers and Boston Bruins but 10 behind the third-place Canadians.

VLASTIMIL BUBNIK
... team captain

Young Players Dot Czech Hockey Club

Czechoslovakia's national hockey team, which plays Father David Bauer's Canadian Olympic team at Memorial Arena next Wednesday night, leans heavily to youth with an average age of 24 years, but it has a few seasoned veterans to provide experience and leadership.

Providing much of it is team captain Vlastimil Bubnik, at 32 the oldest player on the club. He has an outstanding athletic record on the international sports front.

Bubnik is not only one of Europe's most accomplished hockey players but also a games.

soccer player of international renown, having represented Czechoslovakia 12 times in international matches.

He's done even better in hockey. When the Czechoslovakian team plays here, Bubnik will be appearing in his 116th international hockey game. His 115th will be against an Alberta all-star team on Tuesday in Calgary, where the Czechs open their North American tour. For his international career, Bubnik has averaged more than a goal a game—117 scoring shots in 114 games.

Clay Fight Day Earlier

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The Sonny Liston-Cassius Clay heavyweight championship fight at Miami has been moved up one day to Tuesday, Feb. 25. The change was made because the date would have interfered with closed-circuit television of the bout.

Peacemaker for Change

Where Was Howie?

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

If Clarence Campbell is consistent, look for further punishment over that rumour at Maple Leaf Gardens in Toronto last Saturday night. And, for a change, Howie Young must be kept out of the National Hockey League president's wrath.

Howie is by no means the most peaceful citizen in the NHL. The Chicago defenceman has a long record of misdeemeanors, but he was one of the few sensible characters on the ice when Chicago Black Hawks and Toronto Maple Leafs staged their public vendetta.

He was a wild one on and off the ice with Detroit Red Wings who eventually peddled him to the Hawks after the 1962-63 season. He was in coach Sid Abel's doghouse and he certainly wasn't high up in Campbell's popularity ratings.

Coach Billy Reay of the Hawks apparently knows how to handle the rambunctious young man because so far this season he has been assessed only 10 minutes in penalties—19 minors, two majors, one misconduct and one game misconduct. And he isn't getting into unnecessary brawls.

DIDN'T THROW PUNCH
The sort of rough-house going that turned Maple Leaf Gardens' ice into a pit for open war was right down Young's alley, but this time he wasn't having any of it. Some press-box observers say they didn't see him throw a punch, that he acted as a peacemaker and made only threatening gestures to rinkside spectators who apparently gave him a cheering out.

Young is the last NHL player to have a suspension slapped on him by Campbell. It happened last February after a game in Detroit when he blew his stack and received 27 minutes in penalties—a spearing minor, misconduct and game misconduct—in a game against Montreal Canadiens.

He faked a swing at referee Frank Udvardi while en route to the penalty box and threatened him verbally.

For all of this Campbell handed him a three-game suspension.

The 27 penalty minutes boosted him to 210 for the season, snapping the 1955-56 record of 202 by Lou Fontana, then with New York Rangers.

Cast Your Vote Today

Victorians go to the polls today to vote on a $375,000 police station reconstruction bylaw and elect four aldermen and two school trustees.

A single central polling place for the city has been established in Victoria ballroom, 1600 Government at Cormorant.

Polls are open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

BY ACCLAMATION

Mayor R. B. Wilson, returned by acclamation a week ago, urged a heavy turnout of voters to the polls. Officials are predicting only 6,000 to 7,000 of the 20,336 eligible voters will cast ballots.

A similar turnout was predicted last year when 30.9 per cent of voters went to the polls.

The final tally of voters on the current voters' list stands at 20,336. The first count showed a drop of 200 from the 1962 figure of 20,536, but officials discovered 84 names had been omitted.

STILL ISN'T SURE

Any voter who still isn't sure if his name is on the roll may contact either the city clerk's office or officials at the polling station today.

Returning officer Frank Hunter appealed to all voters to make sure that they mark each ballot in their ballot book. Any blank sheet left blank must be separately tallied, creating additional work for the hard-pressed election staff.

100 WORKERS

A total of 100 workers will assist in counting of ballots. Preliminary totals should be available soon after 9:30 p.m.

Property owners will receive three ballots, one each for the money bylaw, four aldermen, and two school trustees. Resident and tenant electors may only vote on the council and trustee candidates. All voters must be British subjects and over 21.

60 PER CENT

To pass the $375,000 money bylaw requires a vote of at least 60 per cent in favor.

Residents of View Royal, which, as the rural area of School District 61 is lumped together with Victoria in election of two trustees, will also vote today at View Royal Elementary School, 218 Helmcken Road.

Polls will be open there from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. View Royal residents won't vote on either the money bylaw or election of aldermen.

RURAL AREA

In 1962 only 31 out of some 1,300 eligible voters in the rural area voted in the school board contest.

Competing for four city council seats are: Robert Baird, investment counselor; Ald. Geoffrey Edgell, publisher; Mrs. Evelyn MacKenzie, housewife; Ald. J. L. W. McLean, clergyman; Ald. Millard Mooney, auto shop proprietor; Victor Williams, real estate company director, and Ald. Lily Wilson, retired.

Seeking two school board seats are: Ralph Fryer, photographer; John Porteous, accountant; Leslie Spencer, medical photographer, and Edward Wood, business proprietor.

Natural History News

Great Horned Owls!

Great horned owls have been reported in the Victoria area in unusually large numbers recently, a member of the Victoria Natural History Society said last night.

The great horned owl is usually considered a bird of the interior and northern areas of B.C., said Allan Poynter, chairman of the society's ornithology group.

He said the birds are likely here because of food shortages or overcrowding in their usual habitat.

He warned the birds are protected under provincial law and should not be shot at. There have been reports of one or two people taking shots at the owls, he said.

Saanich Tables City Letter

Wonderland or Swamp?

By JACK FRY

A swamp near Beaver Lake turned into a money-maker by Wooded Wonderland operator Alfred Pettersen — might be, a swamp again next summer because of a decision made this week by Saanich council.

Council tabled a letter from the city of Victoria dealing with a proposed lease of a portion of the city-owned Beaver Lake property to Mr. Pettersen.

Coun. Joseph Casey, who introduced the motion, said the lease arrangement should be tabled until such time as council receives a joint commission report on the recreational value of the area and receives from A. V. McCann some revised plans for a golf course in the area.

Shelbourne Plan

Saanich Residents Protest Rezoning

A group of Saanich residents publicly appealed last night for Saanich councillors to vote against rezoning a portion of Shelbourne Street for medium-density apartments.

A dozen homeowners who met at the residence of Frank Kopp, 1329 Earlestone Avenue, to plan a last-ditch stand against the apartment plan initiated by the Saanich planning department, decided their only hope was to appeal to the councillors.

"If council feels that apartments should go into this area, why didn't council rezone it five to seven years ago before the buildup of a $3,000,000 investment in new homes in the area?" asked Bruce Walker, 1530 Earlestone Avenue, spokesman for the group.

Council gave first and second reading to the bylaw Monday night. Third and final reading is expected at the next council meeting, Dec. 23.

DEPRECIATE VALUES

If the bylaw passes, it will depreciate nearby property values, create traffic problems and lead to overcrowding of schools in the area, said Mr. Walker.

"We feel that council is closing the door to more than 400 residents of the area, and that council's first duty should be for the people who are living there, in keeping with the rezoning terms outlined in the Municipal Act."

Reeve Stanley Murphy said it "could well be some time" before the report and golf course plans are received.

City council had advised in its letter to Saanich council that subject to Saanich's concurrence, the city is willing to give Mr. Pettersen a five-year lease for 1.5 acres, at a rental of $750 a year.

The present two-year lease for 10 acres at $500 a year, expires on Feb. 22, 1964.

OPERATOR STUNNED

Meanwhile, Mr. Pettersen — who has been trying since October 1962 to get the lease which Victoria has now approved — was stunned at the news that Saanich council has decided to table it. "We employ Saanich help, our own home is in Saanich, Saanich benefits the most because this is another tourist attraction bringing money to the area — I just can't understand it," he said yesterday.

GIVE THEM 30 DAYS

"Saanich council is the last place I would have expected trouble. If there is no sign of any hope within 30 days, we'll have to take the whole kit-and-boodle down to Tacoma and let Beaver Lake become a swamp again."

Mr. Pettersen returned here yesterday from Tacoma, where he formed up arrangements with the board of park commissioners for the metropolitan park district of Tacoma, for the opening of a "Never-Never Land" storyland attraction at Point Defiance Park.

HOPED TO EXPAND

The 25-year-old businessman said he had hoped to expand the Wooded Wonderland here and undertake at the same time the development of Never-Never Land in Tacoma.

Sculptor Elek Imreedy of Vancouver has started production of fiberglass figures for Never-Never Land but if the Wonderland agreement still is bogged down a month from now, "we will combine the Wooded Wonderland with the new figures completed at that time, for a big show in Tacoma."

BACKING IN TACOMA

Tacoma businessmen have offered financial backing for the new venture there, but arrangements are not finalized, said Mr. Pettersen.

Dazel Lemke, secretary of the Tacoma metro park board, said of the scheme, "the park commissioners are enthusiastic about the project, and feel that the proposed Never-Never Land has outstanding appeal and great potential for successful operation in this area."

Small Families, Big Clubs Selling Trees

Decorated Christmas trees have been put up downtown and truckloads of trees are filling vacant lots in Greater Victoria.

One of the biggest sellers of trees here are the three Optimist clubs, which expect to sell between 3,000 and 4,000 Christmas trees this year.

YOUTH ACTIVITIES

Profits from the operation are used for the clubs' various youth activities.

In contrast to street corner sales is the small, cut-your-own tree business run by Susan York, 16, and her brothers David, 15, and Fred, 12.

This is the third year they have placed a small ad in the classified columns, reading simply: "For sale, Xmas trees, cut your own. GR 8-2307."

HIGHLAND AREA

People who answer the ad are told to drive 2½ miles beyond Western Speedway on Millstream Road, in what is known as the Highland district.

"There is no address, but when you reach a fork in the road turn right, and it is the first house on the left," said Susan.

"There is no set price—just whatever people want to give us, and it works out quite well. If they tramp all over the Disaster? —Phone . . .

The provincial secretary's office has supplied municipal clerks throughout the province with wall signs urging the municipal clerks to notify the local Civil Defence co-ordinator in case of natural disaster.

It and the one now undergoing conversion will both be based on the B.C. coast, Mr. Hemmingsen said.

He said the firm is no longer considering a proposal to send its single operational Mars tanker to Australia for fire-fighting during B.C.'s winter months.

EXTENSIVE USE

The plan was perfectly feasible, he added, but there was a danger that extensive use of the aircraft during Australia's fire season could render it due for overhaul just when it is needed in B.C.

It was seen by Victorians at regular intervals for a spell last summer when it was used to combat a slash fire near Sooke.

PACKED OUT

Mrs. Plumb, who sells the trees to her friends and neighbors, said: "I picked out the trees and the children cut and packed them out of the bush."

If their trees go easily, Mrs. Plumb and her children, Pamela, 20; Beverley, 16; William, 14; Audrey, 11; a foster child, Linda, 15, and a grandson, Tommy, 16 months, hopes to spend Christmas with Mrs. Plumb's mother in Alberta.

Meeting Friday

Extra $61,850 Likely For City Hall Area

By IAN STREET

City council is expected to approve allocation of $61,850 in additional funds for construction of new city hall accommodation at a special meeting Friday.

Recommendation that the money be taken out of tax sale land funds previously allocated to the civic theatre was approved yesterday by the Centennial Square planning committee.

The theatre budget would be maintained at its present $373,000 figure by transfer of a similar amount from the bequest to the city by the late Thomas Shanks McPherson.

Yesterday's meeting, which was attended by four aldermen in addition to the three elected members of the committee, cut only $9,000 worth of items out of the low bid of $394,423 by G. H. Wheaton Ltd.

for construction of new city hall accommodation.

The committee then agreed to recommend allocation of a $3,000 contingency sum to cover extra items that crop up during construction, and a further $15,000 to add 705 square feet of extra floor space to the ground floor of the new administrative wing.

Earlier city manager Dennis Young told the committee the architects recommended cuts totalling $10,000 which would not impair efficiency or quality of the job. Further cuts, boosting the total to $49,000, were possible but undesirable, he said.

The present budget allocation for city hall accommodation is $346,000 and the lowest of six tenders received Dec. 5 exceeded this amount by 8.88 per cent. Authority for extra funds has to be obtained from city council.

Mayor Wilson said the recommendation that the additional funds should come from the theatre budget, necessitating use of more McPherson money for that project, "fits in admirably with Mr. McPherson's wishes."

"Thank goodness for Mr. McPherson," the mayor added. His thoughtfulness is helping the city in so many ways, and (this action) will simply mean that more of his money is put into the theatre he gave to the city."

The McPherson estate will bring the city an estimated $1,000,000 in 1967. In the meantime council has got authority to borrow up to $350,000 to request. If it approves the recommendation Friday some $294,850 of this amount will go into the renovation of Pantages Theatre.

Ground floor space allocated to the executive branch of civic government in the new wing is barely adequate for present requirements, the city manager told committee.

Conversion Set

Third Mars To Fight Bush Fires

Victoria's Fairley Aviation Ltd. has been awarded a more than $250,000 contract to convert a third Martin Mars flying boat into an aerial fire engine.

The contract was announced yesterday by J. O. Hemmingsen, president of Forest Industries Flying Tankers Ltd., a company owned by a consortium of B.C. timber concerns.

The Martin Mars is the largest flying boat ever flown and was used by the U.S. Navy in the Second World War for transporting troops.

LAST FOUR

The last four in existence were purchased by the B.C. firms for use as flying tankers.

First of the four to be converted was demolished in a crash near Northwest Bay on Vancouver Island. The crew was killed.

Another was extensively damaged in a storm which swept across Patricia Bay Airport more than a year ago.

B.C. COAST

The second Mars to be fitted out for forest fire control has operated successfully for two seasons.

It and the one now undergoing conversion will both be based on the B.C. coast, Mr. Hemmingsen said.

He said the firm is no longer considering a proposal to send its single operational Mars tanker to Australia for fire-fighting during B.C.'s winter months.

MEMBER COMPANIES

"Conversion of another Mars," said Mr. Hemmingsen, "will further limit the possibility of disastrous fires in the woods, and demonstrates the determination of the member companies to provide the maximum protection to the forest resources they manage."

The five companies, continued Mr. Hemmingsen, "have operations in a number of hazardous areas on Vancouver Island, and generally in the Vancouver forest district, and their timberlands adjoin in some areas."

Imperial Oil raised its retail gasoline price in the Victoria area two cents yesterday to make the price 40.9 cents for a gallon of regular gasoline.

Stations dispensing other brands of gasoline were still selling at the previous price last night — 38.9 cents for brand-name gasoline and 37.9 cents at "unbranded" service stations.

Imperial gasoline prices at Duncan were raised one cent and prices at Nanaimo were unchanged, to make the price of Imperial regular gasoline 40.9 cents a gallon in all three centres.

"For some time pump prices at Victoria and Duncan have been at a depressed level—the lowest reached in many years," a spokesman for Imperial Oil said in Vancouver last night.

ONE CENT

Imperial gasoline prices at Duncan were raised one cent and prices at Nanaimo were unchanged, to make the price of Imperial regular gasoline 40.9 cents a gallon in all three centres.

"For some time pump prices at Victoria and Duncan have been at a depressed level—the lowest reached in many years," a spokesman for Imperial Oil said in Vancouver last night.

ECONOMIC LEVEL

"This is an attempt to return to a more economic level," he said the move had no connection with the coming hearings of the provincial royal commission on gasoline prices.

Gasoline prices reached their low level some months ago in a gasoline price war which forced Victoria area service station operators into selling gasoline on a "consignment" basis—as agents for the oil companies—rather than buying from the oil companies and reselling.

Order for the price increase reached Victoria service stations yesterday morning.

who recently discovered second treaty used by defence, testified yesterday.

Historic Case Opens

NANAIMO—The appeal of Clifford White and David Bob, Nanaimo Indians convicted on a charge of being in possession of deer carcasses out of season earlier this year, opened before Judge A. J. H. Swensky of Vancouver in County Court here yesterday.

The case which drew a full gallery could establish a precedent for all Canadian Indians, and settle once and for all their right to hunt and fish for food at any time.

The Indians were convicted and fined $100 or 40 days by magistrate Lionel Beevor-Pitts Sept. 25.

DOUGLAS TREATY

At that time they brought up their defence a treaty signed by Governor James Douglas giving the Indians the right to hunt and fish over unoccupied territory.

The magistrate ruled the treaty did not apply to the case and it is against this ruling and their convictions that White and Bob are appealing.

ATTEMPT MADE

Crown Counsel Don Cunliffe opened the case for the Crown with an attempt to have the appeal declared a constitutional matter which would have to be brought to the attention of the attorney-general of B.C. and Canada. Judge Swensky ruled it was under the jurisdiction of the court.

Defence lawyer Tom Berger of Vancouver called Dr. Willard Ireland, provincial archivist,

FULL TITLE

Dr. Ireland produced a treaty of 1845 which gave full title of Nanaimo lands stretching from Commercial Inlet to 12 miles up the Nanaimo River to the Hudson's Bay Company in return for 636 white blankets, 12 blue blankets and 20 inferior blankets.

This treaty was signed with an "X" by 150 Indians and was endorsed by Governor Douglas and signed by two HBC officials and a representative of the Nanaimo Coal Co.

THREE HOURS

In a summation lasting three hours, Mr. Berger brought up treaties and agreements dating back to 1763.

His line of defence was a proclamation of King George III which defended the right of Indians to hunt and fish over unoccupied lands and which has never been revoked.

Mr. Berger argued that, even if the Nanaimo treaty was not acceptable to the court, the aboriginal title of the Indians entitled them to the use and fruits of the land and to hunt over all unoccupied territories.

He also claimed the proclamation had the effect of a statute; and as this had never been revoked, it must still be in effect. He said the Indian aboriginal title to lands in B.C. had never been extinguished.

In evidence it was brought out that the original treaties with the Indians bought lands from the south Island tribes for two pounds, 10 shillings per family and later, lands belonging to the Cowichan, Chemainus and Barkley Sound bands were bought from 1,000 families for three pounds per family or 3,000 pounds sterling.

The hearing was adjourned until Jan. 8, 1964, at 10:30 a.m.

Bolivia Mine Battle Barred

ORURO, Bolivia (CP-AP)—President Victor Paz Estenssoro's government has ruled out a military settlement of its dispute with tin miners who hold 15 hostages they want to release for two jailed union leaders.

Four Americans are among the hostages while two Canadians—Raymond Brousseau and Aurele Falardeux of Kirkland Lake, Ont., apparently are restricted to the Catavi mining centre controlled by the rebels. The defence ministry issued a statement Wednesday saying that, on orders of the president, troops will not move against the dissident miners, a pro-Communist group under the leadership of Vice-President Juan Lechin.

This statement was issued in La Paz, the capital, after the army command and a Lechin lieutenant reached an agreement in this town that seemed to remove the possibility of an armed clash.

The agreement brought a withdrawal of army patrols from the zone held by the miners. It also checked a march of peasant militiamen who had intended to reinforce the 3,000 troops here.

Armed guards stayed on duty at the mine union headquarters, where the 15 hostages are cramped by night into one room, 18 by 12 feet. The Americans reported in a radio interview they were well cared for but one said: "It is a fearful experience, with people everywhere carrying dynamite and guns."

Soviets Object To UN Budget
UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The General Assembly approved Wednesday a final figure of $32,870,000 for the 1963 UN budget, over Soviet objections.

E. N. Shatski of the Soviet Union charged expenses were "unjustifiably high, to maintain a swollen staff" and also included $4,600,000 to service the UN bond issue of $200,000,000, for which the Soviet Union would not pay any of its assessment.

Home Bombed

LA PAZ (UPI)—Terrorists bombed and fired on the Bolivian labor minister's home Wednesday after the government gave rebellious tin miners a 48-hour ultimatum to release three Canadians, four Americans and 18 other hostages or face military action.

The attack on the home of Anibal Aguilar Penarrieta followed his order suspending mining operations at Catavi and cutting off the wages and presumably food supplies of the 7,000 miners.

Death Hearing Told

Man Left with Victim Came Back Alone

ALERT BAY (CP)—A fisherman testified Tuesday he drank wine for three hours with the man facing a charge of stabbing a 10-year-old girl the same day.

The girl, Rosalind Wedham, 10, died in hospital Nov. 13, a week later, of knife wounds.

F. G. Clark said the accused man, Robert Bertram Morley, 43, of Alert Bay, got up from the drinking table and left the house with the victim, came back alone 20 minutes later, had another drink of wine and left again.

CAPITAL CHARGE

Clark's testimony came during the first day of a preliminary hearing into the capital murder charge against the hospital orderly.

The hearing was held in the nurses' lounge of St. George's Hospital.

Clark said he had seen Morley with a knife in his hand before they began drinking Nov. 6 at the home of Joe Whelan.

'Body' Sent To Morgue Comes Alive

LONDON (UPI)—Elsie Warning, 35, was declared dead at a hospital yesterday but came to life a few hours later in a morgue.

She was found sprawled on the floor of her apartment and rushed to Willesden General Hospital. Doctors pronounced her dead, and ordered the body taken to a mortuary.

But when pathologist Dr. David Bowen prepared to make a post-mortem examination, he found she was still breathing. She was rushed back to the hospital. Doctors said she apparently suffered from an overdose of drugs, and was in fair condition.

The hospital is investigating. The "stunned" manager of a firm of undertakers said "one of my men collected a 'body' from the hospital and took it in a coffin to the public mortuary. When he got there the mortuary people told him to take it back."

Charles Hinton said the girl staggered into her home naked except for a pair of ankle socks, and "bathed in blood." RCMP Cpl. James Vincent said a blood-covered raincoat, since identified as that of the victim, was found next door to her home, not far from Morley's own home and not far from the spot where Morley was found apparently unconscious from drink.

The hearing continues.

Garden Notes

More Gift Ideas

By M. V. CHEANUT, FRMS

In my last column we chatted about some interesting gadgets which would make welcome Christmas gifts for ardent gardeners, and I thought perhaps we would carry on today with some more gift suggestions.

It seems to me that an ideal Christmas present is something the recipient would dearly love to own but won't buy for himself. He can't justify the purchase on the grounds of real need, but he hankers for the thing just the same. In this connection, it seems to me that a really fine pair of secateurs would really ring the bell.

Every keen gardener will already own a pair of secateurs—these are small, one-handed pruning shears—but they are usually in lamentable condition, cheaply made and purchased early in his gardening career. Such a cheap implement is not much better than a pair of pliers for pruning trees and shrubs, crushing and bruising the wood and leaving pruning wounds that never heal over properly.

I am not particularly impressed by very powerful secateurs which can cut through a one-inch branch—for big cuts, I would prefer to use a pruning saw. Keen blades and clean cutting qualities are the things to look for, and if I were buying a pair of quality secateurs, I think I would like to try them out first on a piece of wet paper.

In my opinion, the best secateurs you can buy—and the most expensive—are those forged by the Wilkinson Sword Company of England, and these are available in a number of sizes and models. Close behind, and somewhat less costly, are the Rolcut pruners, also British, and the Snap-Cut line put out by Seymour Smith and Sons in the United States. There are some excellent Japanese secateurs on the market, but these are more for the use of flower arrangers than for heavy outdoor work.

Many a gardener is doing all his planting and transplanting with a beater-up old hand trowel which he bought as a novice from a cut-rate hardware or the five-and-ten. Such cheap implements are too tiny and weak for use in heavy soil—they bend at the shank if you so much as look at them. A quality replacement trowel should be in stainless steel, for these are so strong, so well balanced and with such a keen edge, they are a sheer delight to use. The line manufactured by Lawson and Heaton of Birmingham, England, are the aristocrats among trowels, but several other firms are putting out excellent stainless steel tools. Various sizes are available, and my own preference is for a rather narrow model—about 2½ inches wide—so you can work between closely spaced plants.

These stainless steel trowels often come in boxed sets, accompanied by a handfork in the same style and metal. These are most attractive gifts, although personally I have no particular affection for the handfork and this implement doesn't get used very much in our garden.

Still another worthwhile Christmas present is a bird feeder of one style or another. I saw one of these recently in a supermarket priced at around the dollar mark, a neat plastic feeder designed to be hung from the branch of a tree. Accompanying it was a plastic sack of wild bird seed to fill the feeder, also below the dollar mark. I am not too keen on bird feeders that dangle free from a branch, for in my experience they sway too much in the wind and spill most of their seed, but if you can figure some way to anchor one of these plastic gadgets, it makes a gift that keeps on giving throughout the year.

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Dallas Won't Be Mentioned

A scene in the new Alec Guinness play, Dylan, was set in Dallas. It is being changed . . . and Neal O'Connell has been working far into the night changing the first 15 minutes of The Girl Who Came to Supper because it was too reminiscent of recent events . . . that world-famous actor who is going to New York to star in a stage play will never make it, unless he stops pouring alcohol into himself.

When you invest your own money in a film or a play, it means one of two things, you haven't much sense or you have a great deal of faith. Connie Townes and her husband Gene McGrath have invested their own money in a film on the life of the late Carole Lombard. Connie of course will play Carole. But who can play Clark Gable?

It was nice to receive an old-fashioned announcement of the engagement of Suzanne Fleishette and Troy Donahue from her parents. Usually we get the announcement from the parents after the honeymoon. The romance of Suzanne and Troy, the blue-eyed boy wonder, has been an on-and-off thing for the past two years. Well, if a girl is patient enough, she will get her man. Ask Elizabeth Taylor.

When we are going to see the Terence Young picture, From Russia With Love, The James Bond story, starring Sean Connery, has now become the biggest money-maker ever in England. It did not cost much to make. And that's the way to make movies.

Warren Beatty will star in The Group, the Charlie Feldman film based on the Mary McCarthy best seller. Some of the scenes in the book are the funniest I have read since, and including, Lolita and all of the Henry Miller outpourings.

Judy Garland disregards the critics with this philosophy: "If you stop every time a dog barks, you'll never get to where you are going."

Anne Bancroft took a weekend off from The Pumpkin Eater in London to fly to Rome to visit her relatives. There are now 93 she writes, 10 more than when she visited them two years ago.

Audrey Hepburn will stop in New York on the way to Switzerland, to see Charade. . . Cary Grant will be around for some of the openings. In this film he was an employee. He does not own the negative; Stanley Donen does. But we should all be employees like Cary. He gets a huge guarantee and big percentage. The same for Audrey.

Juliette Grace is a victim of non-stop anonymous phone calls. One day someone will invent a gadget that will enable the police to track down the callers.

June Allyson, wanting to prolong her honeymoon with Glen Maxwell, is postponing that TV pilot she is to make for her late husband Dick Powell's Four Star company . . . and young Carol Lynley, who looks so yummy in Under the Yum Yum Tree, is dividing her dates between Eddie Fisher and George Stevens Jr.

It took courage for Anita Ekberg to bring her former boy friend, Franco Alfa, into the Italian courts, especially as she is expecting a baby with her husband, Ricky von Nutter. Whether she wins her case or not, there comes a time when a girl has to take a stand and risk unfavorable publicity.

Whatever David Niven has to say about the acting ability of Tony Curtis, and what he has to say is bad, he should admit that Tony is one of the biggest draws at the movie box office. Mr. Curtis is modest about his acting. "I do not have the same background as Sir Laurence Olivier. But there are things I can do that he can't."

Montreal Fizzes With Excitement

LONDON (CP)—An English writer says Montreal is one of the few cities left where one can experience the fling excitement and pioneer thrust that once characterized New York and Chicago.

"Here in Montreal you can still understand what it means to stand on the edge of a new world," writes James Morris, a roving correspondent attached to The Guardian of Manchester and noted for a string of evocative travel books.

Montreal is the only Canadian subject in his new book, Cities, which roams 74 of the world's most atmospheric places from Addis Ababa to Venice, Bogota to Kaitiaki. Morris sees the fermenting city of French-Canadian consciousness as a stimulating hive of students ready to debate and argue anything under the sun—"something like an eastern San Francisco, with a touch of the beat to it."

"Nobody, not even the angriest of young men, could call Montreal dull. She may not produce much great art or quivering philosophy, but at least she tries."

It is beneath this "froth" of conversation and learning that Morris senses a budding commercial thrust, a brawny melting-pot quality shot with hints of violence, but yet "expansive, generous, easy-going."

Everyone's Wrong—Except Us!

By DR. STUART ROSENBERG

The comment of the avid neasemen as a pack of bandits, but avaricious parishioner. Both groups, however, have been known to be guilty of the same very sins they ascribe to each other.

One day an exuberant minister got up in his pulpit and passionately began his sermon: "This church must walk!" he shouted. "Let 'er walk!" came back the response from the pews. He went on: "This church must run!" "Let 'er run!" the congregational voice countered. "This church must fly!" the preacher continued. "Let 'er fly!" came back the approving reply. "But," he continued, "that will cost money!" Lightning-like, the voice echoed back: "Let 'er walk!"

Apparently, we are quite ready to solve problems as long as we need not be counted on for the solution. But talk, experience proves, is cheap, and nothing worth anything was ever purchased without sweat and sacrifice.

Protestants know just what Catholics should believe. Catholics are certain other religions are wrong, and Jews are often maligned or misunderstood by both.

Northerners in the United States tell southerners how to treat "their" Negroes, and then blithely proceed to disregard their own "rules" in their own backyard.

Management knows everything that's wrong with labor, and working men see big bus-

RIO DE JANEIRO (Reuters)—A serious typhoid epidemic may break out here if there is no let-up in a drought which has killed 200 children in the Guanabara district of Brazil around this city since September. This warning came from the district's medical association as temperatures soared in an unprecedented heat wave. Taps have run dry and children have died of thirst a day.

Saanich Studies Problem

Garbage Questionnaire?

Saanich council, undecided whether changes are needed in garbage collection service, this week referred the matter to the health and welfare committee. John Tribe, comptroller-treasurer, was asked by council to report to the committee on the feasibility of enclosing in the water bills a questionnaire asking whether householders feel weekly service would be desirable. Council has received a number of letters from Saanich residents during the past year, some of whom favored weekly collection while others felt the existing twice-monthly service is adequate.

1963 Best in Mines Kiernan Predicts

By HARRY YOUNG Colonist Business Editor

Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan says 1963 is shaping up as the best-ever year in the history of the province's mining industry.

He expects mineral production to exceed $250,000,000 for the first time.
Greatest production gains have been in fuels, up more than 25 per cent at $42,800,000. Oil production is expected to reach $25,400,000, up 40 per cent. Coal production, however, isn't sharing in the prosperity and will be down slightly at $6,000,000.

UP A LITTLE

Zinc is retaining first place among B.C. metals with an estimated total value of $51,800,000, up a little from last year's $51,356,376.

Predicted value of other minerals (1962 production in brackets): copper, $37,900,000 ($33,209,215); lead, $36,000,000 ($34,537,454); iron, $19,000,000 ($18,326,911); silver, $8,600,000 ($7,178,641); gold, $5,700,000 ($5,967,725); nickel, $3,000,000 ($2,902,850).

MERGER FORSEEN

Mid-West Industrial Gas has risen sharply from 2.30 to 3.00 a share within the past few days.

The market anticipates a takeover bid for the company, which has gas wells in Alberta and holds contracts to supply natural gas to a number of industrial concerns, including Calgary Power and Sherritt Gordon.

NOT FOR AMATEURS

The men who are to be asked by Prime Minister Pearson to study Canadian pension problems must be non-partisan, technically competent and given sufficient time to do the job, says J. G. Hungerford, president of National Trust.

"Too much is at stake to have it constituted on any other basis," he told shareholders at the annual general meeting Tuesday. "Vast sums

Wreath Placed For Canadians

HONFLEUR, France (Reuters) — A wreath has been placed here in memory of Canadian soldiers who were killed in France during the Second World War. It is from this place that explorer Samuel de Champlain set out for Canada early in the 17th century.

of money are involved and the decision reached can have a highly significant effect on our economy."

BOND HOLDERS LOSE

The B.C. Supreme Court has ordered that holders of the B.C. Electric convertible series B debentures who did not accept the exchange into provincial government securities are not entitled to exercise their conversion privileges.

About 100 persons holding $100,000 of these bonds are involved in a test case brought forward by C. J. Copthorne, holder of a $1,000 debenture.

AMOUNT CITED

Mr. Copthorne claimed he was entitled to an extra $18.70 per share which was paid to other debenture holders who had converted their holding in the BCE convertibles into B.C. Power stock before Nov. 1, 1961.

Mr. Copthorne did not turn in his debenture until Sept. 24, 1963.
B.C. Power Corp. said there was nothing in its agreement with B.C. Electric that required the payment, and Mr. Justice H. A. MacLean agreed.

STATED INTERVALS

The 1959 issue of $40,000,000 debentures by B.C. Electric gave holders the right to convert into the shares of the parent company, B.C. Power Corp. at stated intervals.

Mr. Justice MacLean also dismissed an application by the Royal Trust Co. which was representing the other debenture holders.

NEAR MILLION MARK

Canadian companies came near to paying $1,000,000,000 in dividends in 1963. The year's total rose to $960,638,044, according to J. R. Timmins and Co., Toronto investment firm, an increase of 5 per cent over 1961.

It was the fifth year in a row that Canadian companies have established new record dividend levels, and the 1963 figure is more than double the dividends paid in 1950.

Largest individual dividend payer in 1963 was International Nickel of Canada Ltd., with $66,000,000, and second came Bell Telephone of Canada, with $58,000,000 disbursements.

SEAGRAMS RESULTS

Distillers Corporation Seagrams Ltd. made a net profit of $12,853,000 ($1.47 a share) in the quarter ended Oct. 31. This compared with $12,442,000 ($1.42) in the corresponding quarter of the previous fiscal year.

Court Parade

Bottle Tosser Fined

A beer bottle thrown from a car on Head Street early Tuesday morning netted Harold Krause, 22, of Work Point, a $25 fine in Esquimalt magistrate's court yesterday.

"If you had struck someone with the bottle you would have been guilty of criminal negligence," Magistrate William Oster told the accused.

Three cheque forgeries and a break-in and theft were admitted by Gerald Elmer Young, no fixed address, when he pleaded guilty to the four charges in city and Saanich magistrate's court yesterday.

He was arrested when he tried to cash a cheque for $214.28 at Shelbourne Plaza Shop-Easy store. Saanich detective Charles Trueit said the accused admitted he stole the cheque and forged the name of John D. Kissinger, Jr.

City detective Lester Clark said eight cheques had been stolen in a break-in at 634 Queens Sunday night and three had been marked with the Kissinger stamp.

Court was told the accused cashed two cheques totalling $377.73 and no money was recovered.

"He says he has the money and it is hidden," said Det. Clark.

Young's police record includes theft, breaking and entering, and forgery. He was remanded until today for sentence.

UN Asks Africa Parley

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The Security Council voted 10-0 yesterday for new direct talks between Portugal and the African powers on the future of Portuguese Africa. France abstained.

Russia went along reluctantly with a resolution sponsored by Ghana, Morocco and the Philippines placing emphasis on self-determination for Angola, Mozambique and Portuguese Guinea and urging Portugal to grant an amnesty to advocates of that course.

PORTUGAL RAPPEL

The measures also "deprecate" failure to comply with previous Security Council action on the question of its overseas territories. The U.S., Britain, France and Brazil abstained in a separate vote on this provision but the affirmative votes of the other seven members carried it.

The resolution calls on all countries to comply with a ban, enacted by the council last July, on the shipment of arms to Portugal for use in its African territories. The Africans charge the Portuguese use arms supplied by its NATO allies to suppress the natives.

Wild Gang Caught

MONTREAL (CP) —Police said Wednesday a gang has been rounded up that preyed on private homes in a series of about 100 holdups, rapes and thefts with violence from Quebec's Lake St. John region to Burlington, Ont. Loot in cash and jewelry was estimated at $1,000,000.

Inspector Herve Patenaude of the Quebec Provincial Police said eight men have been arrested in connection with the house robberies and seven have been arraigned on a variety of charges.

GIRLS ASSAULTED
"If there were any pretty girls that took their fancy, the girls would be raped," Inspector Patenaude said.

HOMES RAIDED
The type of homes raided varied from expensive residences of doctors to humble homes of farmers. In one case, the raiders found only 50 cents "and they took it," Inspector Patenaude said.

SOME LOOT FOUND
Police have recovered about $45,000 worth of loot.

"The arrests have broken the operations of some of the most wanted men in the country," the inspector said.

TWO FOR JEWEL THEFT
Two other suspects, Claude Messier, 29, and Tony Facino, 21, have been arraigned in St. Hyacinthe, Que., on charges of invading a home there and taking $15,000 worth of cash and jewelry.

Robert Davreau, 23, and his brother Jean - Guy, 22, have been arraigned in Montreal on charges of hijacking a truck and stealing $15,000 worth of merchandise, most of which police say has been recovered.

Pearson Refuses To Say

OTTAWA (UPI) — Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson yesterday declined to make public what government jobs require a security clearance, the names of civil servants who decide such cases, or the number of persons dismissed on these grounds.

He told the commons it would be "contrary to the public interest" to divulge such information. He took the stand in answering a series of written questions by David Orlow (NDP—Winnipeg North).

NUMBER VARIES
Pearson said he was unable to estimate how many government jobs required a security clearance. He said the number varied on the basis of what positions involved access to classified information.

He admitted each government department and agency had a security officer. He identified them generally as "middle to senior rank officers of integrity and good judgment, with considerable experience in the field of personnel administration."

B.C. Grain Facilities Surveyed

HALIFAX (CP) —Transport Minister McInnis said Wednesday grain elevator engineers are carrying out surveys of storage and delivery facilities in Vancouver and Saint John, N.B., and a similar survey has been commissioned for Halifax.

The surveys are aimed at recommendations to improve the grain facilities. He said results of the first two studies are expected "very shortly."

First Clash Next Week

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Next week's NATO ministerial meeting in Paris may mark the first clash between the views of President Johnson and President de Gaulle — although neither will be at the meeting.

The possibility is being scouted in the light of the French president's known displeasure with NATO strategy as evolved under United States leadership.

The key question goes back to the doctrine of massive retaliation that was first enunciated by John Foster Dulles but now has been abandoned by the U.S.—only to be taken up by France.

Differences have been thrown into relief by the major study of NATO resources and requirements that was ordered when the alliance foreign ministers held their last meeting in Ottawa in May.

The study is being conducted by a defence planning group in Paris, representing all 15 members in conjunction with NATO's standing military group in Washington. It is a long-term planning exercise.

Now the French are saying NATO must first agree on strategy—how it would react to various types of attack by the Soviet Union—before it can know what its requirements are.

Gen. Pierre Billotte, a Gaullist deputy, hinted at a meeting of NATO parliamentarians Nov. 7 that the forthcoming conference of foreign ministers could make little progress in laying a plan until the strategic questions were answered.

Billotte referred doubtfully to the phrase "flexible response."

The couple was childless, and the inheritance will go to the relatives of the one the court determines outlived the other. A sister of Mrs. Tachovsky asked the bodies exhumed for autopsies.

JOHNSON

... against

"graduated nuclear response" and "conventional pause" that have replaced massive retaliation in U.S. NATO thinking.

And in this, indeed, the Frenchman expressed doubts that are by no means confined to his country but are widespread in Europe.

Billotte said the "graduated" idea may be all right in many parts of the world but could be fatal in Europe since it would leave Russia in doubt about NATO's will to use its full power.

"An acceptable strategic concept—accepted by all—must be rapidly defined," the French general declared. "The effectiveness and solidity of our alliance depend upon it."

Implicit in this argument—powerful to Europeans—is the fear that an attack which fell on Europe but not on the U.S. would present the American president with a decision too agonizing to take.

At what stage would Johnson—who would hold the trigger for nearly all NATO's nuclear weapons—unleash the nuclear counter attack, and would it be too late? That appears to be the question implicit in Billotte's statement.

Observers see in it a continuation of the de Gaulle concept that Europe should be able to defend itself independently of the U.S.

Edmonton Vote Probe Urged

EDMONTON (CP)—A full-scale judicial inquiry into Edmonton's Oct. 16 civic election has been called for by a civic political body, but legality of such action was questioned Wednesday.

The civic government association was authorized in October by a court order to conduct an investigation into the election.

Tuesday the same group called for a judicial inquiry—complete study of election documents and procedures by an appointee of the attorney-general's department.

A spokesman for the CGA said 750 letters were sent to persons who had sworn affidavits of eligibility in order to vote and 450 of these had been returned because the person involved did not live at the address given returning of

Who Died First?

WILBER, Neb. (UPI)—A hearing is under way to decide whether Alfred Tachovsky, Swanton, Neb., or his wife died first 19 months ago in a murder-murder. An estate of $240,000 is at stake.

The couple was childless, and the inheritance will go to the relatives of the one the court determines outlived the other. A sister of Mrs. Tachovsky asked the bodies exhumed for autopsies.

A-Arms Coming Shortly

WASHINGTON (CP) — Members of Canada's special Committee on defence said they were told by high-ranking U.S. authorities Wednesday that Canada will get nuclear warheads "very shortly."

They said these authorities also expressed general satisfaction with Canada's present role in North American defence and indicated Canada's air division in Europe, now designated as a nuclear strike reconnaissance force, could be given a dual conventional - nuclear role for greater flexibility.

MORE TIME

However, several committee members added that the Americans observed that increasing the air division's flexibility would require more time and training and would involve additional time consumption in switching the division from one role to another during actual combat.

The committee, headed by Maurice Sauve, Liberal member for Des-de-la-Madeleine, Que., conferred behind closed doors for two hours and 15 minutes with the U.S. group.

REVIEW

The future role of the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile was not discussed but there was a general review of North American air defence and U.S. authorities remarked that warheads for the Bomarc and interceptors would be shipped to Canada "very shortly," Sauve said.

Harold Winch, New Democratic party member for Vancouver East and member of the defence steering committee, said one final Canadian-U.S. agreement on nuclear weapons is in the process of being signed "and shortly thereafter the warheads will be supplied."

A-Weapons To Get 10th Base

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence Minister Hellyer Wednesday confirmed that a 10th nuclear base — at Val d'Or, Que. — will be built in Canada.

The minister said in a written return for Real Caouette, Creditiste leader and MP for Villeneuve in which Val d'Or lies, that a nuclear storage dump will be installed at the RCAF station there for Voodoo jet interceptors.

Mr. Hellyer said Val d'Or authorities were not consulted but that the mayor had given the government his assurance of complete co-operation by the city.

The other nine nuclear bases in Canada are: Chatham, N.B.; Baginville, Que.; La Macaza, Que.; Ottawa; Comox, B.C.; Goose Bay, Labrador; Harmon Field, Nfld., and two at North Bay, Ont.

Summer Slump Feared

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal officials are crossing their fingers in hope they won't be embarrassed next year by too much success in this winter's housing incentive program.

Informants said Wednesday the new program of paying a $500 bonus for winter-built homes has begun with a rush, with applications from builders so far on some 30,000 homes they expect to complete by the deadline next March 31.

FLOWING IN

Applications are continuing to flow in, though the total qualifying for the bonus is not expected to reach the 40,000 homes originally budgeted for by the government. The $500 will be paid to the first buyer of the houses.

The question now is the extent to which this winter program will "borrow" from next year's housing program, reducing the amount of house-building that would otherwise occur in the warmer months of next year.

Another complicating factor is the scheduled jump next April 1 in the federal sales tax on building materials, to eight per cent from four. On top of the $500 winter housing bonus, this likely will be an added incentive to some builders to crowd construction into the winter months.

MORE JOBS

Meanwhile, the bonus program is expected to ease the impact of winter season unemployment.

By the labor department's rule of thumb, the building of 20,000 homes in a four-month period would mean on-site jobs for an estimated 90,000 men, with an even larger volume of work in supply industries.

Bad Guys Around

Deck the Halls Lock the Doors

By BOB PETHICK

It's a good idea to deck the halls with holly in honor of the coming season, but it's also a good idea to remember this is the season when the bad guys are out in force.

"Sneak thieves are continually looking for opportunities to pilfer packages and other articles from unlocked cars," Det. Insp. Charles Webb said last night.

RASH OF THEFTS

"At this time of the year we usually have a rash of thefts of various items from the cars of Christmas shoppers," he said.

"Lock your car when you are downtown shopping," he advised.

PROWLERS, TOO

He also warned of house prowlers who appear to be on the increase at this time of year.

"If people are away from home in the evenings enjoying the Christmas festivities, they should always leave a few lights burning.

A house left in complete darkness is an open invitation to prowlers to burglarize the premises.

BUT NOT TREES

"One set of lights that should not be left on when you leave the home are those on the Christmas tree," he added.

By way of warning to merchants he said: "Fraudulent cheque rackets have become increasingly prevalent in recent times and people in business would be well advised to take a few extra precautions when cheques are tendered by persons with whom they are not acquainted."

When in doubt contact the bank or credit bureau.

POST-DATED CHEQUES

He warned merchants to watch out for post-dated cheques. "If they should turn out to be worthless, there is generally no recourse to a criminal charge against the cheque passer."

"However, if you find you have been taken in a cheque swindle, notify your local police promptly so they may commence their investigation immediately."

Geoffrey Holyhead has been elected president of the Victoria and District Chrysanthemum Society.

Other officers: vice-president, Jack Westaway; treasurer, T. T. Vaulkhard; secretary, Mrs. Eric McCabe, and members of the executive committee, Gordon Benham and Wyn Elford.

The president reaffirmed the society's support of the Shelbourne Boy Scout and Girl Guides' Association who will sponsor the 1964 fall show.

Airfield Need Questioned

PORT ALBERNI—Chamber of Commerce members here have questioned the need for a modern airfield capable of accommodating large planes.

The questions were raised at the regular meeting this week after Harry Graf, chamber representative on the Alberni airport committee, reported.

Mr. Graf said an officer and engineer from the department of transport had visited a proposed site.

Property adjoining that which had been selected by the committee had apparently met with approval of the officials.

Mr. Graf indicated that purchase of the site would probably cost $10,000 and a further $10,000 would be required to clear the site.

Polaris Flops Again

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—An advanced Polaris missile roared aloft from a laboratory ship last night, veered off its planned 1,800-mile course and was deliberately destroyed.

It was the second such mishap with the powerful Polaris A-3 in two weeks. The bullet-shaped missile, capable of flying up to 2,880 miles, roared out of a launching tube in the deck of the USS Observation Island, suddenly veered sharply and 53 seconds after it was launched was destroyed by a range safety officer.

Water Failure Idles 2,000

TRAIL (CP)—An estimated 2,000 men were thrown temporarily out of work and two communities put under water rationing Wednesday following the failure of a water system feeding the giant Consolidated Mining and Smelting operations.

The district of Tadanac and the village of Warfield, bordering Trail, were put under water rationing. A company official said it was expected the water system would take "a few days" to repair.

The company said its pumping facility, which takes water from the Columbia River, would not be fully operative for "a few days."

Look at it this way: If Gilbey's Gin didn't make superb drinks, would it have been sold all over the world for nearly 80 years? We hardly think so.

Dying Boy Meets 'Train'

VANCOUVER (UPI) — The make-believe world of a five-year-old boy can build castles of candy and great armies from tin soldiers.

Five-year-old Bradley McDonald, briefly transformed Oakalla prison in Burnaby into a railway station.

Bradley was there to meet his father coming home after looking for work on Vancouver Island. He waited patiently, a crudely-wrapped gift of cigars clutched in his little hands.

In reality, Gordon James McDonald, 33, was leaving the jail where he was serving six months for the theft of $680 from his employers.

The B.C. Court of Appeal had granted his early release after being told McDonald stole the money to provide medical care and toys for his son.

The child has leukemia and is not expected to live more than one year.

It's difficult to tell a boy his father is in prison. So his 25-year-old mother, Carol, created the work story.

Waiting outside the prison gates, the boy questioned his mother in a manner peculiar to all small-boys of his age: "Is the train in yet? When is my daddy coming?"

He juggled the green-and-red Christmas-wrapped package.

Beneath the ribbon was a picture of his father he had kept with him for three days while being treated in hospital last week.

When his father walked out through the prison gate, the boy's bright, round eyes lit up with excitement.

He paused momentarily, then ran over with the present outstretched and leaped into his father's arms and gave him a hug.

Weavils, Mould

Heavier Penalty

MISSION (CP) — City council has asked Attorney-General Bonner to appeal the 18-year sentence of convicted rapist James Meeker and try for a stiffer sentence.

Meeker, originally charged along with his brother Kenneth in the slaying of 12-year-old Alire Mathers of Mission, pleaded guilty to having sexual intercourse with the girl before the slaying.

Food Firm Guilty

VANCOUVER (CP) — A food firm which pleaded guilty to charges of selling canned food containing dead insects, larvae and mould will be sentenced Jan. 8.

Famous Foods Ltd. admitted Wednesday to six charges involving food unfit for human use and also to selling spaghetti and meat balls labelled beef when they actually contained a sausage-grade meat.

Magistrate Ralph Reid ordered some 10,000 cans of chili con carne containing mouldy sausage meat and pork and beans containing weavils and larvae forfeited to the crown for destruction or conversion into animal food.

The charges were laid after a woman purchased a can of pork and beans and found weavils floating on top.

Shippers Urged To Unite

MONTREAL (UPI) — The government-appointed trusteeship running Canada's battling inland shipping unions, yesterday asked the shipping companies to set up a committee to carry a "common approach" to management-labor negotiations.

The trustees' request was delivered by letter to more than 40 steamship, tugboat and dredge operators. The move was announced by trustee Rene Lippe, a Montreal judge.

'DISLOCATION'

"One of the contributing factors at the root of labor strife on the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence River has been a serious dislocation of managerial responsibility," Judge Lippe said.

Judge Lippe cited lack of effective government legislation as another factor in the often-violent jurisdictional war.

"There has not been the common approach necessary for employers to meet their responsibility to labor," he said. "We are not passing judgment on any particular company," he added, "and we feel the shippers will welcome the machinery through which to speak to us."

Support Medical Schools

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government must give Canada's 12 medical schools more money or face a doctor shortage in the future, New Democratic MP William Howe said Wednesday.

The medical doctor from Hamilton South said the 12 colleges graduate about 850 annually but a flow of doctors from other countries has been the chief reason why the ratio of doctors to population hasn't become worse.

INFLOW DROP SEEN

That immigration inflow probably will dry up by the time Canada gets a prepaid national medical plan, as it must, said Dr. Howe.

The ratio in 1901 was one physician to every 972 Canadians. This ratio in 1960 was one to 879, higher than 20 other countries including the U.S.

FEWER MALCONTENTS

Dr. Howe, speaking as the Commons studied the spending estimates of the Privy Council, said there are fewer medical malcontents of other lands available to Canada now as medical plans spread.

Canada would be forced back on its own medical education services.

OTHERS GAIN

Canada up to about eight years ago had excellent medical training standards, he said. But other countries were forging ahead.

More than 5,000 Canadian-educated physicians were practising in the United States and there was also an increasing U.S. drain on Canadian teaching personnel.

POSTWAR BABY CROP

If applicants for medical schools were higher, that seemed to be due to the post-war baby crop.

In 25 years a serious problem might exist unless there was recognition of the need of the Canadian medical colleges for more funds.

PLEAS FOR AID

Three members — Arnold Webster (NDP — Vancouver-Kingsway), Heath Macquarrie (PC — Queens) and H. W. Herdige (NDP — Kootenay West) — made pleas for more federal aid to universities.

All three also warned that Canadians will not let the Liberals forget their election campaign promises to provide 10,000 university scholarships worth $1,000 each.

Mobile Shop

New Location Doubles Take

At the December meeting of the Junior Auxiliary of the Royal Jubilee Hospital, a gratifying report was given by Mrs. W. A. Trenholme, convener of the Christmas bazaar held in November.

Mrs. John Pennington, convener of the Mobile and Gift Shop, which is located in the foyer of the new wing of the hospital, reported that since moving to the new location, receipts have doubled and the shop is so busy that it is just not possible to close during the day, as had been the practice. As a result, three shifts will now be maintained by the members, with the shop remaining open from 10 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. daily, except Saturday and Sunday, when it will be open only from 2 p.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Visitors calling on patients invariably stop at the shop to take some gift, such as magazines, sweets or a flower arrangement. The latter are fresh daily and can be delivered if the visitor so desires. The Mobile Shop on Wheels continues to visit the wards daily. Mrs. K. J. Norgaard being in charge of staffing the wagon.

The Thrift Shop at 585 Johnson Street is in need of large paper bags, clothes pins, and good, used clothing. It is reported that any old-fashioned clothes can be readily sold for costumes for theatre groups, etc.

As is usual each December, a team of auxiliary members will decorate Christmas trees throughout the hospital. This year 40 trees will be decorated. Several young University of Victoria students under the direction of the auxiliary will decorate the trees in the Children's Ward. This annual event will be on Monday, Dec. 23.

Miss Marjorie Bradley of the Medical Social Services at the hospital, expressed her thanks to the Auxiliary for the monies granted her department when ever she required assistance.

Canadian Club Tea

Applause for Musicians

An hour-long feast of music was enjoyed by members and guests attending the Women's Canadian Club annual Christmas tea in the Empress Hotel ballroom yesterday afternoon.

Pierre and Grace Timp, well-known Victoria musicians, kept the audience applauding with their songs and piano selections. In fact, they had a hard time getting off stage to join the guests for tea.

Mrs. George R. Parkes, wife of the Lieutenant-Governor and honorary vice-president, was the honor guest. Another special guest was Mrs. W. A. C. Bennett, wife of the premier and honorary vice-president.

Others at the head table were Mrs. Fred M. Corbett, president, Miss Elizabeth Forbes, vice president and past presidents, Miss Kathleen Agnew, Mrs. P. B. Scurrell, Mrs. H. L. Campbell, Mrs. T. H. Johns, Mrs. F. G. Aldous, Mrs. Alan J. Campbell, Mrs. Kenneth Drury, Mrs. H. L. Smith, Alderman Mrs. Lily Wilson, Mrs. R. G. McKee and Dr. Olga Jardine. Miss Mary Ashworth, pianist, was also among the honored guests.

The floral decorations were beautiful. Huge bowls of white chrysanthemums, antirrhinums and red berries were on the stage and on the main table which also held sprays of evergreens, holly and glowing candles in red glass holders.

The flowers were a gift from Mrs. Gordon Wismer, a past president, who has sought a warmer climate in New Zealand for a winter holiday.

Dr. Jardine and Mrs. McKee poured tea at the head table, and those presiding at the smaller tables were Mrs. R. W. Mayhew, Mme. Lugrin Fahey, Miss J. E. M. Bruce, Mrs. T. C. Evans, Mrs. P. J. Sinnott, Mrs. W. J. Wilson, Mrs. J. C. Matheson, Mrs. A. H. F. Stelek, Mrs. Wm. G. Flett, Miss Hetty A. Evans, Mrs. Clara Wellwood, Miss Luella Crawford, Mrs.

Wedding Trip To Acapulco

Baskets of red and white chrysanthemums decorated St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church for the marriage of Moria McColl and Sub-Lieut. Roger Michael Leigh Bernard, RCN.

Dr. J. L. W. McLean officiated at the candlelight ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James P. McColl, 1760 Veda Place, and the son of Mrs. G. Dorman Bernard, 3205 Upper Terrace Road, and Mr. C. Bernard, Prince George.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a sheath-style gown of heavy white French brocade styled with a train extending from the waistline which was enhanced with a large self-fabric bow. Sleeves ended in lily points.

A bouffant tulle veil misted to shoulder-length from a white pill box headpiece outlined in seed pearls. Red roses and white carnations were in the cascade bouquet.

Soloist, John Bray, sang "Where 'ere You Walk" during signing of the register. He was accompanied at the organ by William P. McColl, brother of the bride, Gordon Hamilton played the couple from the church and later into the receiving line at the reception.

Identical floor-length gowns of red velvet with hats and shoes on tone were choice of matron of honor, Mrs. W. P. McColl and bridesmaid, Mrs. J. P. McColl, Jr., sisters-in-law of the bride, and junior bridesmaids, the Misses Susan and Merrilee McColl, cousins of the bride. All carried bouquets of white carnations and holly.

Best man was Lieut. George Jackson and ushering guests to their pews were Sub-Lt. William Paul, Lieut. Donald Coulter, and James P. McColl, McColl.

An honor guard was formed by Lieut. N. G. Anderson, Lieut. S. Fairbairn, Lieut. I. T. Bouch, Lieut. T. Hayward, Lieut. J. Hedley, Lieut. G. Beveridge, Lieut. K. Arnold, Sub-Lt. F. Dennis and Lieut. F. Hawrysh.

A reception followed in the wardroom in HMCS Naden where William McColl, brother of the bride, read a toast sent from her uncle, John Muir, in Scotland.

Leaving on a honeymoon trip to Mexico City and Acapulco, the bride wore a three-piece green tweed suit, black and gold brocade hat, black accessories and gold corsage.

On their return, the couple will make their home in Victoria.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included Miss Janet Muir, aunt of the bride, from Scotland; Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Swinton and Mr. and Mrs. D. Grant, all of Vancouver.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Charles Heffell, who were married recently in St. Mary's Church at Metchoin, are now living at 1476 Gladstone. The bride is the former Edwina Anne Graham, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Graham, 765 Audley Street, and her groom is the son of Mrs. A. Heffell, Vancouver, and the late Mr. Heffell. (Roy Strable)

Handiwork Shown

Mrs. A. G. Kinnis showed colorful swatches of upholstery and drapery material she had recently woven to furnish a room in the new wing at Royal Jubilee Hospital, at the recent meeting of Victoria Hand Weavers' Guild. She also displayed several swatches of materials for a room in the courthouse.

Mrs. Kinnis has also woven altar hangings for a new church in Williamsburg, Pa.

Mrs. H. L. Gonnason showed a number of attractive yardage she had woven for clothing, using a variety of threads.

She described the qualities of the yarns, how the articles were woven and finishing of the material.

Among Mrs. Gonnason's handiwork was a hanging depicting the 1850 Centennial crest. She gave useful hints on how to use small groups of left-over thread for experimentation with color and texture.

Mrs. G. Singleton presided and Mrs. H. Steggle reported that two weaving books were to be purchased for the guild library in memory of Mrs. F. Yeomans and Mrs. G. B. Sutherland.

Sleek and slimmed down man's oxford is very much at home on the dance floor. Of interest is the slightly higher heel and phantom stitching across the toe of these dress oxfords.

At right, iridescent effect in the woman's dancing slippers is achieved through use of multi-colored applique on gold kid. These shoes are designed and made in Canada.

Party Shoes Deserve Well Groomed Feet

Don't let your feet let you down during the holiday season, says the Shoe Information Bureau of Canada. Women's feet take a beating, trudging over miles of store aisles during the Christmas rush and chances are their feet will need a good grooming to get them back in shape. Feet must look their best because they'll be very much on display in the pared-down, opened-up shoes that are in vogue this season. Poorly-kept feet are always unattractive, but they look even worse when they emerge from a dainty pair of sling-back pumps.

There's no cause for despair, however. Feet can be whipped back into shape by a little daily care. "Pump bumps" and other rough spots will disappear if they are attacked vigorously by creams that are available on the market expressly for this purpose. Toe nails should be carefully groomed. They're on view too, in the open-toed sandals that are coming back into the fashion picture. Legs should be immaculate. Dry, flaky skin should be kept under control with a good cream.

Proper selection of hosiery to wear with opened-up shoes is important, too. The open look calls for fine hosiery that is made without heel or toe reinforcements.

When it comes to choosing shoes for the festive season, you'll find that the choice is almost limitless. Gold and silver kidskin, brocade, mesh and embroidered fabric shoes are to be seen everywhere. Many Canadian manufacturers now make satin or peau de sole shoes that may be dyed to match a cocktail dress or evening gown.

Men are fortunate in not having to worry about foot grooming as women do, but they do have to think about choosing the proper shoes to wear for dressy occasions. Many a husband can spoil his wife's elegant appearance by accompanying her to a cocktail party in a heavy pair of shoes that are more appropriate for a camping trip.

Canadian shoe manufacturers are making a wonderful selection of light-looking, plain-toe oxfords or slip-ons for dress wear. One of the season's newest trends in men's shoes—a trend that harks back to several decades ago—is the use of patent leather. The patent leather oxford or slip-on is the correct shoe for formal wear.

B AND P PARTY

TYPOGRAPHICAL UNION WA

"Start catchin' it! We'll be th' first kids on the block with a snowman!"

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Why is society so merciless to the middle-aged husband who leaves his nagging, selfish, over-weight wife to enjoy the company of some pleasant woman who has the sense to praise him occasionally and makes him feel like a man?

How could his business colleagues honor him with a dinner when he leaves his socks on the floor, blows his nose too hard and forgoes to pick up the dry cleaning? Such a man, of course, is not worthy of affection. A pat on the arm in public will help get across the idea to friends that they are a devoted couple. But if he wants more than a peek on the cheek when they get home she says, "At our age?" You must be a sex maniac.

Millions of husbands would probably take a powder tomorrow if they didn't fear the label of "heel" for walking out and leaving "the poor thing" with the children, the house, the car and the bank account. Me—I just left.—COLOR ME GONE.

Dear Friend: There's no point in trying to reach you since you are already gone. But to other husbands who feel as you do, I'd like to suggest that you spell out your feelings, frankly and promptly, not to me but to your wife—or should I color you yellow?

Dear Ann Landers: I've never written a letter to a newspaper in all my life, but I simply must comment on the letter from the woman who signed herself "Top-notch Secretary." In my opinion she is a Top-Notch Trouble-Maker who has, I suspect, something beyond a professional interest in her boss.

I, too, work for a "terrific guy" but he is married and has a family, which means he's off-limits so far as I am concerned. I don't care if his wife phones him 30 times a day. If the calls annoy him then he can tell her. Furthermore, her presence in the office is of no concern to me. She can pitch a tent in the reception room. I couldn't care less.

A top-notch secretary knows what to keep her nose out of. And at the head of that list is family matters.—PEACE, IT'S WONDERFUL.

Dear Wonderful: Thank you for an astute observation. You'd make an excellent member for my recently formed "Mind Your Own Business Club." Welcome to the fold.

Dear Ann Landers: You have dealt repeatedly with the problem of friends and relatives who insist on visiting the sick in hospitals—but one more time won't hurt. I'm a nurse who recently had surgery, so I now understand this problem from all angles.

Some hospitalized folks enjoy visitors. It's good for their morale. These people are the aged, the handicapped, children who must be confined for long periods of time, and fracture cases on the mend. Unfortunately, they are not the ones who get the company.

Usually the woman who had a baby this morning or the man who had a coronary last night get the long line of visitors.

When I was a hospital patient I entertained more guests in my room than I ever entertained at home. I was happy to check out of the hospital so I could get some rest.

Please, Ann, say it again. Do your hospitalized friends and relatives a favor and leave them alone unless they send for you.—R.N. OF PA

Dear R.N.: I am happy to say it again. "Do your hospitalized friends a favor and leave them alone unless they send for you."

Final plans were made to distribute 10 hampers to blind persons before Christmas at the monthly meeting of the Robert Burns McKicking Chapter of IOOE held at the home of Mrs. W. Bruce Speer.

Mrs. H. Barnes, educational secretary, reported $13 worth of records had been forwarded to Antigua school. Calendars were also sent to James Bay and Pender Island schools.

Hampers Set For Blind

Cash Wedding Gifts Heartening Custom

By EDWARD NEHAN

HONG KONG—Getting married is getting married. It's the same all over the world; there's nothing to it.

The first thing you need is someone to marry.

In the Far East there is a saying that every man should have a Japanese wife, a French mistress, an English secretary, a Chinese cook, a German car and an American kitchen.

Tossing convention to the winds, I have married a Chinese woman who is thinking of buying an Italian sports car.

From this point on, it's the same as in the United States, almost.

First, of course, you must consult a fortune teller to decide on what date is most suitable. I was born in the year of the monkey and my wife in the year of the snake. The fortune teller decided that the universe, the stars and my paycheck would be in correct position on Dec. 2 so that was the date. It was important to choose a date before the end of 1963 since this is a "good" year to get married. Next year is not so good.

Wedding announcements were no problem. We simply had them printed in both Chinese and English.

"Show me where it says my name in Chinese," I asked, as we looked over the proofs of the invitation cards.

"Your name?"

She had forgotten to include it.

The "meet the prospective son-in-law party" was held at a local restaurant. This combines formal announcement of the engagement and "meeting the family." Toasts were exchanged.

The bride-to-be handled all the details and expenses of the wedding reception. This is one American custom which has taken firm hold here.

Also, by Chinese custom, the bride's family provided the bed linen—blankets, sheets, pillows and pillow covers. The marriage had to be started out with a new bed. My wife had interpreted the Chinese character for "bed" as "furniture" so we got the whole works.

One of the most heartening customs observed here—heartening, at least to a new groom—is the practice of giving cash instead of gifts for wedding presents.

This is a recent Hong Kong innovation. Newlyweds, especially at large weddings, had always received gifts that were duplicated—electric frying pans, pressure cookers, toasters, lazy susans, dozens of towels and so forth. Much of this had to be exchanged. Now, with cunning practicality, plain bank cheques or gift certificates from local department stores are given so the newlyweds may purchase their household effects to suit their own tastes.

Since our marriage was to include all the best of Chinese and Western customs, I had been wondering if this would include that great old Chinese custom of allowing the husband to spend most nights out with the boys.

When I asked my wife-to-be about this I got my ear twisted and a terse answer: "That was the old generation. Those days are gone forever."

Sky Is the Limit

By HELEN FARMER

Come Christmas, the lady of the house scurries about like one of Santa's helpers, looking for bits and bobbles to add a festive note to her home's everyday decor.

This year, how about extending the Christmas decoration theme... by decking yourself out in festive array?

'Tis the season to be merry.

—worn chin length and ending in a blunt cut. But that's for daytime only.

In the evening, a sky full of Santa's reindeer is the limit!

Gay, mad, exotic effects can be achieved by the use of briochees or postiches... extra hairpieces which can be attached to a basic hairdo for instant glamor.

For a Christmas tree hairdo, there, and then popping a fat, round postiche on top. Spray the extra hairpiece with hair spray and scatter on gold or silver sparkle dust while it's still wet so it will stay on.

If you wish to wear the hairdo you normally have — just in case you feel your husband won't recognize you — simply add a piece of jewelry, an elegant comb, pearls, a brilliant brooch, a red ribbon or a miniature Christmas tree ornament.

Or you can create a hairdo that's aglow by spraying on gold, silver, pink, blue or mauve hair spray that will wash out when your gala evening is over.

THE FOUNDATION

Now for some new makeup ideas to match your Christmas coiffure.

Many of the major cosmetic houses have recently put items on the market to give your complexion either a rosy, pearly, silvery or touch-of-gold glow.

When used with a deft and discreet touch, these foundation lotions look alluring by evening's candle glow and do much to lift your face from a grey daytime effect to an exotic night glimmer.

And last, but not least, do not forget you'll never have a chance to glitter at a Yuletide party if you arrive completely exhausted from decorating your tree and whipping up plum puddings.

Take time out of the Christmas rush to ease taut nerves and muscles by relaxing in a tub scented with velvety bath oil.

And for a five-minute facial, keep a bottle of skin lotion in the refrigerator or close to a cold window. Saturate a pad of absorbent cotton with the lotion and firmly pat your freshly cleansed skin for two minutes. Pat dry with a towel and you'll see your face glow.

It's no joke. This is the latest in Christmas hairdos, guaranteed to attract much attention.

so why not live up to the billing this saucy season gets each year? Do a bit of oneupmanship on the Christmas tree.

Some of the ideas are weird, some are wild, some are wonderful. But all are guaranteed to give gaily at a Christmas party or cause a calamity at the Christmas dinner table.

BUT BEWARE...

Just don't get caught under the mistletoe looking this way or you might get yourself soundly kissed!

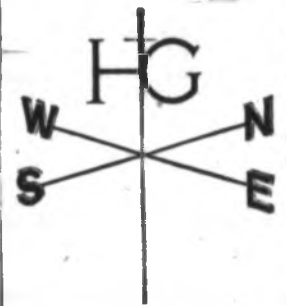

Let's start with the hair, that part of a woman which can create either a note of simplicity or sophistication, depending on whether it's dressed up or down.

The basic hair style this season is straight, straight, straight create a cone-shaped effect by pulling the hair back into a French twist. Next comb the crown hair forward in upward strokes and hold high by twisting a postiche around it in a bandlike effect. Then let the crown hair fall in wispy tendrils over the band. Lastly, hang a string of petite gold or silver Christmas balls around the band.

To make your hair look like a Christmas wreath, brush your hair down from a centre part in sweeping arcs which frame the face. This suggests the silhouette of a wreath when outlined with sprigs of holly berries and leaves.

You can rival a plum pudding simply by brushing your hair straight back and up, fastening

Compass points, points of interest, points of sale and just plain appointments, all radiate from the centre of the city — the Georgia Hotel Stores, offices and night life are all within easy strolling distance. And naturally, if you want to drive out to friends or see the sights of the city, you'll find our friendly staff ready to point the way. Which brings us to one other thing that radiates from the Georgia — hospitality. Classic hospitality we call it. After all, we've been radiating it for over 35 years. Next time, set your course from the centre of things — the Georgia Hotel. Moderate rates from $9 single. For certified reservations, in Victoria call EV 6-5411.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Vallance, 1199 Reynolds Road, announce the engagement of their eldest daughter, Pearl Edwina, to Mr. William Arthur Clayton Knight, only son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Knight, 1612 Quadra Street. The wedding will take place Saturday, Jan. 4, at 7 p.m. in Central Baptist Church with Pastor R. D. Holmes officiating. (H. Draper)

Couple Wed In St. Mary's

Orchids from Hawaii, gift of Mr. and Mrs. G. Pearson of Honolulu, were worn by the mothers of the principals at the Saturday afternoon wedding of Miss Sylvia Kathleen Newell and Robert John McNutt, in St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay.

Canon H. J. Jones officiated and Charles Palmer was the organist.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Newell, 2083 Byron Street, and Mrs. G. McNutt, 1116 Hutchinson Avenue, and the late Mr. McNutt. Mr. Newell gave his daughter in marriage.

The bride wore a blue wool suit with matching hat and black accessories. White carnations and pink mimosas were in her bouquet.

Only attendant, Miss Irene Newell, sister of the bride, wore a gown of pink brocade with accessories in tone and carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums.

David McNutt was best man and David McNutt, brother of the groom ushered guests to their pews.

At a buffet dinner which followed in the home of the bride's parents, her brother, Richard F. Newell, proposed the toast.

Chocolate Tidbits For Holiday Eating

"Lots of chocolates for me to eat . . . Ah, wouldn't it be lovely?" croons Eliza Doolittle of My Fair Lady fame. No doubt your family shares her sentiment . . . particularly at this time of year. Cold weather, warm hearth and the sight and scent of homemade candy go together to make the holidays bright.

So flavorful and easy to prepare is delicious Five-Minute Chocolate Malt Fudge. It's most inviting, for in addition to the chocolate, it offers chopped walnuts and a mild malt flavor.

If you're not a chocolate lover, or if you'd like to prepare a variety of sweet tidbits for holiday eating and giving, then try this pair of superb nutted candies. Almond Peanut Clusters combine peanut butter with chopped almonds; Party Pecan Log features peanut butter and lots of pecans.

So whether you favor "Lots of chocolates . . ." or want another type of sweet, this trio of recipes will make your candy preparation a pleasure.

FIVE-MINUTE CHOCOLATE MALT FUDGE

(Makes about 2 pounds)
Two-thirds cup (small can) undiluted evaporated milk; 1 1/2 cups sugar; 2 tablespoons butter; 1/2 teaspoon salt; 1/2 cup powdered malt; 1 1/2 cups (about 16 medium) diced marshmallows; 1 1/2 cups (1 1/2 6-ounce packages) semi-sweet chocolate pieces; 1 teaspoon vanilla; 1/2 cup chopped walnuts.

Combine evaporated milk, sugar, butter, salt and powdered malt in saucepan. Bring to a boil, and boil five minutes, stirring constantly. (Start timing when mixture begins to boil.) Remove from heat. Add marshmallows, chocolate, vanilla and walnuts. Stir vigorously for one minute (or until marshmallows are completely melted and blended). Pour into buttered, nine-inch square pan; cool. Cut in squares.

ALMOND PEANUT CLUSTERS

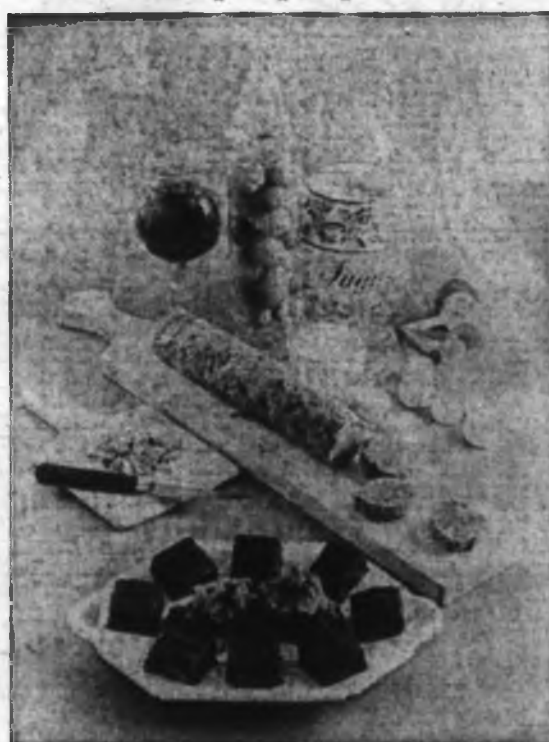

(Makes about 3 1/2 dozen)
Two-thirds cup (small can) undiluted evaporated milk; 2 cups firmly-packed light brown sugar; 1/2 teaspoon vanilla; 1/2 teaspoon almond extract; 1/2 cup peanut butter; 1 1/2 cups chopped almonds.

Mix evaporated milk and sugar thoroughly in saucepan. Bring to a boil and boil five minutes, stirring constantly. (Start timing when mixture begins to boil.) Remove from heat. Add vanilla, almond extract, peanut butter and almonds. Stir vigorously until well blended. Drop candy rapidly from a teaspoon onto a buttered cookie sheet. Cool.

PARTY PECAN LOG

(Makes two dozen slices)
Two-thirds cup (small can) undiluted evaporated milk; 2 cups firmly-packed light brown sugar; 1/2 teaspoon vanilla; 1/2 teaspoon maple extract; 1 cup chopped pecans; 1 cup ground or finely-chopped pecans.

Mix evaporated milk and sugar thoroughly in saucepan. Bring to a boil and boil five minutes, stirring constantly. (Start timing when mixture begins to boil.) Remove from heat. Add vanilla, maple extract, peanut butter and one cup chopped pecans. Stir vigorously until well-blended. Pour into buttered, nine-inch square pan and allow to cool. Shape into 12-inch roll. Roll in 1/2 cup ground or finely-chopped pecans, cut log into 1/2-inch slices.

Party Pecan Log, Almond Peanut Clusters and squares of Five Minute Chocolate Malt Fudge, all made texture-right with evaporated milk, add joy to the festive season.

Angel Tart Shells

Three egg whites, 1/2 teaspoon baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 teaspoon vinegar, 1 teaspoon water.

Beat egg whites, baking powder and salt to a foam. Add sugar, a spoonful at a time, alternating with the mixed vanilla, vinegar and water. Beat until all grittiness has disappeared and meringue mixture is stiff.

Spoon lightly into small paper cups as are used for cup cakes and make a depression in center; or shape into small tarts on greased and floured cookie sheet. Bake in a slow oven, 275F about 45 minutes until completely dry and crisp. Color should be creamy, not brown. Cool and store in covered container. To serve, remove paper cup and fill tart with ice cream and top with sauce or with chocolate, lemon, or butterscotch pie filling, fresh or thawed frozen berries and top with whipped cream. Yield: 12 to 18 tarts depending upon size.

Mrs. Edwards Heads Group

Mrs. L. H. Edwards was elected president of St. Mary's Evening Women's Auxiliary at the annual meeting held recently.

Others elected were Miss Winnifred Smith, 1st vice-president; Mrs. A. Winsor, 2nd vice-president; Miss Vera Deakin, secretary; Mrs. R. G. McKay, corresponding secretary; Mrs. W. T. Pearson, treasurer; Mrs. A. E. Raymond, educational secretary; Mrs. A. Webb, United Thank Offering; Miss Ethel Clark, Living Message; Mrs. J. Andrews, Prayer Partner; Mrs. H. K. Newell, Dorcas; Mrs. J. MacLeod, social service.

Mrs. R. S. Gray gave an interesting report on activities of the Girls' Auxiliary and reports by members of the executive showed progress in all departments.

How Much Enough?

Take the guess work out of preparing stuffing for turkey by estimating how much you will require before you start. Allow one cup of stuffing per pound of oven-ready bird. This gives you enough to fill neck and body cavity and may, depending upon the size and shape of turkey, allow some extra to bake separately in a covered buttered casserole for those extra servings. The casserole needs only 30 to 40 minutes in the oven to heat thoroughly and blend flavors. A dry dressing mixture should have a tablespoon or so of water sprinkled over the surface before placing lid on casserole and baking.

Chemainus Bridge Winners

CHEMAINUS.—Nine tables of bridge were in play at Mount Egon Golf clubhouse last week. Winners were Mrs. R. Thom and Mrs. W. A. King, first high score; Mrs. R. Lavigne and Mr. R. Morgan, second high score; Mrs. L. McLaughlin and Mrs. H. Heslop, consolation.

Winners of the pre-Christmas half of the tournament were Mrs. Herbert Wilson and Mrs. F. Brinham, first high score; Mrs. W. O. Wilson and Mrs. J. Reid, both of Lady Smith, second high score; Mrs. H. Heslop and Mrs. L. McLaughlin, consolation.

Mrs. Donald Urton announced a second tournament will begin Thursday, Jan. 16. Mrs. E. G. English and committee served refreshments.

No-Bake Pudding

No-bake Christmas puddings and fruit cakes are for those who did not quite find time to make these traditional holiday desserts in time for proper aging and mellowing. Here is a recipe for such a festive pudding.

SUGAR AND SPICE PUDDING

1 No. 2 can or 1-lb., 6 1/2-oz. can mince-meat pie filling
2 cups miniature marshmallows

1 cup candied fruit
1 cup chopped pecans
1 (13 1/2-oz. pkg.) graham cracker crumbs

Combine pie filling and marshmallows; let stand while you cut up fruit and pecans. Combine all ingredients. Pack into foil-lined, four-cup mixing bowl or mold. Chill overnight or longer. Serve with whipped cream or ice cream that has been stirred to soften. Makes three pounds or nine to 12 servings.

*Additional crumbs may be necessary if pie filling is very juicy.

Man in the Kitchen

Something Appetizing To Follow Yule Feast

By BASIL FITZGERBON

The festive season can be a time of utter confusion in the kitchen. It is very difficult for people to get away from the traditional turkey or goose and without a doubt the average menu that the individual encounters during the holiday season is extremely rich, often a little too heavy and certainly, in the long run, inclined to destroy the average appetite. With this thought in mind, it is perhaps a good idea to offer suggestions for easy-to-prepare dishes that will hit the spot. For example, after a heavy Christmas dinner, which is often served at 3 or 4 o'clock in the afternoon, few people relish the thought of another meal in the same day but have that urge for just "something appetizing." Here are two recipes for onion soup, the first one adopted from "Le Grand Dictionnaire de Cuisine 1873" compiled by Alexandre Dumas.

ONION SOUP

(Will serve over 12 people)
10-12 big white onions, chopped

1/2 pound butter
2 1/2 quarts of milk
1 1/2 quarts chicken stock
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1/2 cup of water
6 raw egg yolks
Salt and pepper
Toasted bread crusts

The individual has the choice of either the big white Spanish or the little red Italian onions, but Spanish have perhaps more food value and are consequently invariably chosen to make soup for huntmen or drunks, two classes of people who require fast recuperation.

The second recipe is a variation on the theme of onion soup. A great many people will prefer the short-cut recipe for onion soup gratine.

ONION SOUP GRATINE

6 large Spanish onions
1/2 cup butter
2 cans consommé
1 soup can of water
1/2 cup of cognac
Toasted French bread
Grated parmesan cheese
Salt and pepper to taste

If your taste is slightly more flamboyant, a touch of nutmeg flavors the onions very nicely. Melt the butter in a heavy saucepan. Add the onions. Simmer over low heat until the onions are soft and transparent. Add the cognac and cook for one minute. Add the consommé and the water and allow to simmer for 25 minutes. In individual ramekins or soup bowls, place one slice of toasted French bread, liberally covered on one side with grated parmesan cheese. Fill the bowl or ramekin with consommé and place in the oven under the broiler for two or three minutes. It's delicious. A further variation on this theme is to mix grated Gruyre cheese with the grated parmesan on the basis of fifty-fifty, which gives a much softer texture to the cheese content.

Bon appetit!

School Doodles Set Woman On Air Career

By ED TREFIK
CALGARY (CP)—When Regina Jordan doodled in her schoolbooks the marks usually looked like airplanes.

Her fascination with airplanes and flying grew into a passion to become a pilot and after achieving that goal she went on to earn an instructor's license.

"There are eight or nine other women instructors in Canada—we're pretty rare," she said as she guided a light plane over the city.

"But not too many women learn to fly. I taught three in the Maritimes and I have two here taking instructions now."

Her interest in flying goes back when she was five years old, she said. "My grandmother often would read to me stories about pilots and flying and I thought it was wonderful."

But it was not until 10 years ago that she had her first plane ride.

"A combination of things kept me away. We lived 15 miles from the Saint John, N.B., airport and there were no buses going out that way. Also, I just never had the money."

But after her second ride she signed for a course of pilot instruction. Five years ago she quit her job as a portrait photographer and photo finisher to become a flying instructor at the RCAF station at Greenwood, N.S.

"I came to Calgary because I'd heard the flying weather here was so good," she said. "We've been grounded only about four days since I came here July 1."

"In the Maritimes it was difficult to plan a trip. I guess the weather has stranded me on just about every airport in the Maritimes, sometimes as long as three or four days."

As for prejudice from men in the profession, Miss Jordan said: "I run into it occasionally, but it's hard to tell if it's serious or just teasing."

She feels that women pilots have to be careful to avoid criticism and she does not think that they take as many risks as men will.

When she was trying for her private license she felt she was "in a spot." Miss Jordan explained that at the time "I thought if I had an accident they'd just ask me to stop. By the time I tried my instructor's test I didn't feel the same and I haven't thought about it since."

She said she has trained 50 pilots and feels she is as skillful as most male pilots.

"I've flown only light planes, but I'd like to fly a big one."

She enjoys teaching and has no desire to become a bush pilot. "I'm not very fond of cold weather."

Neither is she keen about the mechanical end of flying. "I'm just in the driving end of it. I've no real interest in getting grease all over my hands."

Miss Jordan, who has logged 2,400 flying hours, now is an instructor with Chinook Flying Service Limited, working eight hours a day, six days a week. In summertime her work day may stretch to 12 hours.

Photography, her former profession, has become a hobby—but she doesn't have much time for it.

You'll be so happy with the difference in your fabrics when you use Calgon. They'll look cleaner, feel cleaner and even smell cleaner. Simply add it to your wash-water, along with less of your favourite soap or detergent... and to your rinse water, too.

Smart Women Can Make Furs Last

By PATRICIA RUSAK

TORONTO (CP)—Furs cannot be expected to last a lifetime but with proper care they will last for at least 15 years, says Irvin Berger, manager of a fur dressing firm.

Many fur garments brought to his plant for a special re-furbishing process called "Hollanderizing" have been the victims of moths, heat, sunlight and friction.

"Dirt and dust settles at the base of the hair and acts as an abrasive which saws off the fur fibres," says Mr. Berger. "And then the grimy fur attracts moths."

Handbags, parcels, even getting in and out of cars when wearing a fur coat, cause friction which will break the hairs, says Mr. Berger.

"A woman wearing a fur coat should not carry her handbag or parcels in the same position day after day."

Although furs need protection from dust and dirt, they should not be kept in plastic, cloth or paper garment bags. "A fur coat needs free circulating air to keep its leather from drying out."

Wet furs should be dried slowly in a cool room with good circulation, not over a radiator or near a fireplace.

"And never brush them—it's fatal," says Mr. Berger. "Just give a coat a good shake to fluff up the fur."

Fur coats should always be hung on wide-end hangers that will not pierce the leather.

And also to prevent tears in the lining, a woman should learn to unfasten the coat and loosen it about her shoulders when she sits down, says Mr. Berger.

"Breaks and tears should be taken for repairs immediately."

Other tips for proper care of a fur coat: Don't pin flowers or jewelry on furs; never douse them with perfume or cologne which dries the leather and stiffens the guard hairs; don't use such cleaning fluids as naphtha, benzene or gasoline.

As with any garment, a fur coat should be selected to suit a woman's style and coloring, says a furrier.

Short-haired furs such as mink and Persian lamb are usually most flattering on shorter figures while long-haired furs such as fox look better on tall women.

For the most part, fur coats are classically designed and style is usually a question of length.

When shopping for furs, look for lustrous, bright pelts with a uniform color and dense, silky texture. The leather should be strong but soft and pliable.

Inferior fur has a dull, faded appearance and often has partially bare spots or hairs that are split and curled at the tips. Every woman should have her furs inspected by a furrier and professionally cleaned at least once a year.

And a modern cold-storage plant where temperature and humidity are kept at the proper level is recommended for the summer months.

Mandarin Oranges Sell at Loss As Retailers Stage Price War

A price war has forced the Victoria retail price for mandarin oranges down to and below last year's levels—and retailers are apparently losing money on every box they sell.

Many Victoria supermarkets were offering the oranges at $1.98 a case yesterday. Some were selling a case for $1.89 on a one-to-a-customer basis or with some similar restriction.

A supermarket manager said last night the stores are buying the oranges at a wholesale price of $4.50 for two boxes—$2.25 a box.

"Right now I'm not particularly interested in selling Japanese oranges," he said. "I lose on every box I sell."

WAR AT STANDSTILL. He said he feels the price war, which began when some offered the oranges at low prices to purchasers of family grocery orders, now is "at a standstill."

He said last year, when wholesale prices were considerably below this year's, retailers sold the oranges for less than $2, but made a profit of about 10 per cent.

When the price was at its earlier high level this year, some Victoria households refused to buy the oranges and there was talk of a boycott of the $2.49 oranges.

But a second supermarket manager said he did not think consumer resistance was an important factor in the reduced prices.

"The oranges were selling well when the price was high," he said.

Mandarin oranges are "something that people buy anyway," he said, although there will likely be a spurt in the amount they buy now that the price has gone down. Victoria received 10 to 15 per cent fewer oranges this year than last, he said.

Victoria Health Officer:

Elderly Need Better Care

Victoria must take better care of its elderly citizens, says Dr. John Whitbread, senior medical health officer for the metro board of health.

"We encourage them to come here and retire from the prairies, yet when we get them here for 10 years, we haven't got the facilities to care for them," he told a board meeting.

Greater Victoria has a high percentage of elderly people—about one-fifth of the population over 65 years of age, compared with an average eight per cent over 65 elsewhere in Canada.

The board supported in principle a draft plan which Dr. Whitbread submitted for rehabilitation, home care and institutional care in this area.

Standard care for the chronically ill and aged could be improved considerably, said Dr. Whitbread.

A co-ordinator of admissions should be appointed to direct people to the most suitable facilities, and a team of occupational and physiotherapists should be set up to assist in follow-up care, he said.

U.S. Gives Jacque Free Mail, Office Money, Protection

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The men who run the U.S. government have expressed their sympathy for Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy in a concrete way.

President Johnson yesterday signed into law a bill which received House and Senate approval Tuesday. It gives Mrs. Kennedy:

- Free mail privileges for the rest of her life.
- Secret Service protection for as long as two years. This protection is also available for her children, Caroline, 6, and John, Jr., 3.
- Free office space for a year at a place of her choice.
- A total of $30,000 to pay staff.
- Another $15,000 to help pay burial expenses for her husband.

The bill, which was introduced in Congress Nov. 29, one week after John F. Kennedy's assassination, stipulates none of Mrs. Kennedy's staff may be paid more than $18,000 a year. This is the highest salary for Congressional aides.

Lightning Hits Pakistani Jet

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—A Pakistani jet airliner with 97 persons aboard made an emergency landing at an RAF station in South Cyprus after being struck by lightning. An RAF spokesman said the plane was slightly damaged but nobody was hurt. The airliner, a Boeing 720, was flying from Pakistan to London.

10,000 Christmas Trees Ordered Destroyed

LEAMINGTON, Ont. (CP)—Some 10,000 Christmas trees were ordered under the plow by the Leamington district high school board Tuesday despite some frantic efforts to have them given to taxpayers.

The board voted 5 to 4 in favor of destroying the 10 acres of Scotch pine after board members were deluged with calls from area residents requesting a tree and from Christmas tree retailers objecting to this intervention in their sales.

The land, located in Wheatley 10 miles east of this community 25 miles southeast of Windsor, recently was ordered cleared by the board and rented to an unidentified Wheatley farmer for $200 a year.

Mrs. Kennedy, through press secretary Pamela Turnure, disclosed yesterday she has purchased a home in the posh Georgetown suburb of Washington and will move into it after the first of the year.

It is across the street from the home of veteran politician and diplomat Averell Harriman, who offered his home to her indefinitely as she left the White House last week. The Harrimans moved into a hotel.

The address is 3017 N Street. The Kennedys lived at 3307 N Street when he was a senator.

Jury Discussion Denied in Court

VANCOUVER (CP)—Accusations that two men charged with fraud discussed the trial with members of the jury were denied before B.C. Court of Appeal judges Wednesday.

The denials followed allegations Tuesday by lawyer Gordon Dowding that three men now serving jail sentences had their chances for a fair trial prejudiced by the alleged conversations between jurors and two other men involved in the trial who were also convicted.

The trial took place in New Westminster Assize Court before Mr. Justice J. G. A. Hutcheson in the spring of this year.

All five were found guilty by the jury and received sentences ranging from two to three years.

Fish Dispute Arbitrator Delay Denied

Quaig are appealing on the grounds that the alleged irregularities influenced their chances of a fair trial.

Mr. Dowding said Tuesday he had evidence that showed the other two men, Gordon Baxter and Peter Haliday, who are not appealing, fraternized with members of the jury at a New Westminster hotel.

Mrs. Shirley Baxter, the wife of Gordon Baxter, told the appeal court that on one occasion she sat with her husband and members of the jury in the hotel but denied that proceedings at the trial were discussed or that any attempt was made to influence the jury.

Garfield Eby, a bartender who served the accused and the jurors, said he didn't hear any of them discussing the trial.

He told the House of Commons he had been unable to contact Peterson since receiving word from B.C. Supreme Court Justice Victor L. Dryer that he would have to drop the arbitration assignment in light of his subsequent appointment as a Great Lakes labor union trustee.

Robichaud denied charges by Frank Howard (NDP—Skeena) that Ottawa was responsible for "this whole process of delay."

Blade That Knighted Beef One of Sheffield Prizes

By DOUG MARSHALL

SHEFFIELD, England (CP) Cutlery from Sheffield has been slicing through beef since Chaucer was a boy.

Sheffield knives are cited for their quality in The Canterbury Tales and the £30,000 collection kept by the city's 339-year-old Company of Cutlers includes the trenchant blade supposedly used by James I to "knight" a loin of beef—creating the rare lineage of sirloins.

SILVER PLATE

The south Yorkshire city first became famous for its silver plate in the 18th century when a local craftsman named Thomas Bolsover discovered how to sandwich copper between two strips of rolled silver.

By the 1830s the process of electroplating silver on other metals, usually nickel, had replaced the older method. Today, largely because troops of servants no longer are available to keep the family's spoons polished, stainless steel is outstripping silver production five to one.

STEEL IN STYLE

"People can't be bothered to use their silver more than two or three times a year these days," says Alderman I. A. Lewis, Sheffield's lord mayor and co-director of one of the city's leading cutlery firms.

"Stainless steel was once considered cheap and unattractive. But with finer steel and modern designs, the lead given by the Swedes and the Italians is being taken up everywhere."

Lewis's firm turns out some 36,000 pieces a week, about half of them for export. Spoons and forks are stamped out of high-grade alloy steel by huge machines. Knives are forged and finished by another process.

Silver Now Second

All of the steel is produced by local firms. The fine red sandstone used for smoothing and polishing comes from the banks of the nearby River Don and is the prime reason why the industry started here.

Production today is heavily automated but the firm still employs a dozen red-kerchiefed buffer girls—last survivors of a famous legion of local women who stood elbow-deep in sandstone buffing the final gleam on forks and spoons.

"We have machines doing that job more efficiently but we wouldn't think of letting these girls go," said a spokesman, echoing a problem that crops up persistently in modern industrial England, and is often solved less pleasantly.

One Man Killed By Terrorists

LEOPOLDVILLE (Reuters)—Terrorists have killed one man, kidnapped at least three others and burned schools and houses in The Congo's Kulu province, according to provincial government communiques reaching here.

The firm specializes in knives with handles in Indian bone and blue-and-white Wedgwood china. The principal line in stainless steel is plain and functional with a simple bevelled decoration.

"At the moment the decoration is too ornate for British tastes but the sets are selling well in Canada," the spokesman said. "We hope they will catch on here in about two years' time."

Pride of place in the firm's showroom is held by the original stainless steel razor—an ordinary dinner knife that gave more than 40,000 shaves to Allied prisoners of war in a Japanese camp between 1942 and 1945.

strand of Disney animal pic-played this time by a retriever, a bull terrier and a Siamese cat. All three play their roles as convincingly as only they could.

Notable assists come from a black bear and her two cubs, a lynx, a rabbit and a porcupine.

MUCH PATIENCE
The photography must have involved a wealth of patience to obtain the striking effects, but, along with the color and the natural settings, it is lovely.

I don't think the "Incredible" feature of the journey — 200 miles by the intrepid lead players — is ever quite put over.
But this hardly matters because each scene or sequence is so impressive what they all add up to ceases to mean very much.

Of course there are human players.
One is Jan Rubes, who was Another substantial link between The Incredible Journey this province. The rest of the picture was filmed in Ontario.

Canadian Hailed In Sweden

STOCKHOLM (Reuters)—Swedish ballet-lovers gave Canadian choreographer Brian Macdonald warm applause and more than a dozen curtain calls at the end of the first night performance here Tuesday night of his ballet,
Do You Love Bach?

The program, which also included two Swedish ballets, was at the Royal Opera House.

NEAR FUTURE
The Bach ballet lasted 30 minutes and the Swedish audience gave it a tremendous reception with people clapping and cheering for 10 minutes at the end.

Both Macdonald and the Swedish choreographer Birgit Cullberg were called to the stage several times.
After the performance Macdonald said: "I am so happy over the reception accorded to me tonight. The Swedish dancers have worked hard and we have had a wonderful co-operation."

SEVERAL TIMES
He said his Bach ballet would be in the ordinary repertoire for some time with 12 performances to be given in the near future.

Macdonald said he would leave Stockholm in a few days

Island Site Sought

Jail Hunt Gets Top Priority

Finding a suitable site for a Vancouver Island regional provincial jail has become a top priority task, an official of the attorney-general's department said yesterday.

He said the need for a 200-inmate prison on the island becomes steadily more pressing due to overcrowding in other provincial institutions, notably Oakalla.

DOZEN SITES SEEN

About a dozen sites from Victoria to the Courtenay-Comox area have been inspected so far. Not all have been rejected but none have been chosen.

The spokesman said the institution should preferably be located in a central location to ease the burden for families of inmates who wish to visit them.

CLOSER TO HOME

Construction of a provincial jail on the island is in line with the department's policy towards decentralization of prison facilities in order to keep inmates closer to their home communities.

Originally the department contemplated use of the present Colquitz mental home facilities when these become vacant early next summer, but they don't entirely fill the bill. Officials are anxious to establish the prison outside a built-up area and not in an area likely to become built-up in the near future. Colquitz is likely to be used as a prison only temporarily if new facilities are not completed in time to relieve pressure on Oakalla.

Fire Kills Armadillos

BELLINGHAM (AP)—Three armadillos died in a fire at a research laboratory at Western Washington State College late Tuesday night.

Also of a dozen white rats only one survived.

The room on the top floor of the old main building suffered moderate damage.

Assistant Fire Chief Melvin Bundy said one of the armadillos apparently tipped a heat lamp over into straw.

Fairbanks' Story Halted in Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—Film producer Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., was in Montreal Tuesday in connection with a $250,000 action he filed last July against publisher John Vader and the Montreal weekly Midnight.

Mr. Fairbanks came to Montreal at the request of Midnight's lawyers for examination for discovery—a legal step in connection with preparation of the action.

The action concerns an article published by Midnight associating Mr. Fairbanks with Christine Keeler, London girl who figured in Britain's Profumo scandal.

Magistrate E. Murphy said under the circumstances he would not impose the usual fine for the offence. Fines for driving while under suspension usually range from $150 to $200.

A motorist was fined $100 and his licence was recommended suspended for one month when he appeared on a charge of careless driving.

Court was told Richard A. Hale of Sooke was followed for three miles by a police car on the Trans-Canada Highway. During that time he passed two groups of five cars each when it was impossible to see oncoming traffic.

Traffic was heavy, visibility was poor due to fog and roads were slippery, court was told.

A man who made the mistake of passing a marked police car that was travelling at the legal speed limit paid out $15 and costs when charged with exceeding 40 miles an hour.

After passing the police car, Ivor Nygaard-Petersen, 1913 Duchess was paced at 50 and 55 miles an hour, court was told.

James Duncan of Sooke was fined $10 on a charge of being a minor in possession of liquor.

Under examination by Sydney Cutler, lawyer for Midnight, Mr. Fairbanks said he knows Miss Keeler.

Mr. Cutler then asked: "Where did you meet her?"

A. J. Campbell, Mr. Fairbanks' lawyer, raised an objection at this point, arguing that the questions were irrelevant.

The judge did not agree and proceedings came to a halt when Mr. Campbell said he would appeal.

The Quebec Court of Appeals would consider the question but no date for such consideration was announced immediately.

The examination for discovery involves a preliminary gathering of the principals to an action for the purpose of ascertaining or reviewing the general facts of the case.

1,200 Hunt Crash Victims

By TED BLACKMAN

STE. THERESE DE BLAINVILLE, Que. (CP)—A prefabricated village with new roads, modern street lights and a population of 1,200 has sprung up almost overnight in the open marshy fields near this Laurentian foothills community.

This village owes its existence to death and destruction.

The men of the village work around the clock, through zero temperatures, digging and sifting through mud and clay. They are looking for human remains and bits and pieces of a jetliner which carried 118 persons to a fiery death 12 days ago.

ROADS CROSS SITE

Four hastily constructed gravel roads, lined with street lamps, criss-cross the crash site and four mechanical shovels dig at a huge crater. The crater marks the site where most of the passengers of a Trans-Canada Air Lines DC-8F jet were buried when ill-fated Flight 831, bound for Toronto, fell from the sky and exploded four minutes after taking off from Montreal.

The men, 800 soldiers, 200 TCA workers and 200 Quebec Provincial Police, live in an insulated but well-heated bungalow at the site or in the barracks at nearby Bouchard Army Camp. A huge cafeteria provides a recreation hall when the men finish their eight-hour shifts.

They work under the direction of Inspector Gerard Houle of the Quebec Provincial Police, who set up headquarters in a trailer at the site the day of the crash.

If he has reached any conclusions as to the cause of the crash, he isn't talking and neither are the investigators from the transport department, TCA and the Canadian Army and Air Force.

Inspector Houle, who directs the investigation until the possibility of criminal negligence is ruled out, says "this is a matter that we can't discuss right now."

The 100th victim was identified Tuesday as teams of men raked through loads of mud brought to three large sifting pits from the crash scene by more than 20 bulldozers. Only 15 victims were positively identified by fingerprints and documents. The rest of the charred and mutilated bodies were recognized by personal effects.

"We have not found one complete body. The largest remains was a headless torso," Inspector Houle said. "This, to say the least, has not been a pleasant task."

Diggers have reached the 25-foot level in the crater. The biggest fragment of the plane recovered so far was part of one of its four engines.

Estimates of the amount of insurance involved range past the $10,000,000 level—with no one sure at this stage just what the total might be.

William Moynihan, Canadian broker for Lloyd's of London, said TCA was insured with Lloyd's for passenger liability up to $5,500,000. This would mean coverage in connection with the Ste. Therese crash could be tentatively set at about $5,000 for each of the 111 passengers killed.

There are three levels of insurance involved — private life insurance and accident policies held by the crash victims, flight insurance policies bought by them at airport insurance desks or machines, and public liability insurance held by Trans-Canada Air Lines against damage claims.

But it will be months before the complex legal-technical tangle is sorted out after Canada's worst air disaster left 118 dead in swamp near Ste. Therese de Blainville, Que.

Sooke Court

Suspended Driver Gets Break with $75 Fine

Robert McGeachy of Sooke was fined $75 in Sooke magistrate's court Tuesday night when he appeared on a charge of driving while under suspension.

McGeachy, who was picked up by RCMP during a routine roadblock between Sooke and Jordan River, told the court he filed application to prove financial responsibility, the reason his licence had been suspended, a week before he was picked up.

Magistrate E. Murphy said under the circumstances he would not impose the usual fine for the offence. Fines for driving while under suspension usually range from $150 to $200.

A motorist was fined $100 and his licence was recommended suspended for one month when he appeared on a charge of careless driving.

Pauling Asks UN Control Atom Arms

OSLO (UPI)—Nobel peace prize winner Dr. Linus C. Pauling urged the U.S. and the Soviet Union yesterday to place their nuclear weapons under United Nations control.

Pauling outlined his proposal for a system of joint national-international control of stockpiles of nuclear weapons in a lecture before the Nobel institute.

Pauling received the 1962 peace prize, which was not awarded until this year.

He appealed to the governments of the world to institute a system under which the U.S. or the Soviet Union could use nuclear weapons only with UN approval. A similar dual control system should apply to the smaller nuclear powers if they did not destroy their weapons.

Pauling said also he did not believe the U.S. or the Soviet Union would disarm unless Communist China was a signatory to the disarmament agreement.

Learn French Electronically MPs Advised

OTTAWA (CP)—Social Credit Leader Thompson suggested Wednesday that Parliament establish an electronic languages laboratory within its precincts as a step to promote bilingualism among its members.

Mr. Thompson—who says he speaks Norwegian, Amharic, Italian and a number of African dialects as well as English—has installed a tape-recording booth in his office to practice French.

He suggested in an interview that a number of the booths be leased and installed somewhere on Parliament Hill, with a trained language instructor, for Members of Parliament who want to take the new form of private tuition.

Mr. Thompson suggested MPs pay for the instruction and the electronic equipment themselves.

A motorist was fined $100 and his licence was recommended suspended for one month when he appeared on a charge of careless driving.

Court was told Richard A. Hale of Sooke was followed for three miles by a police car on the Trans-Canada Highway. During that time he passed two groups of five cars each when it was impossible to see oncoming traffic.

Make these Christmas treats with Rogers Golden Syrup

ROGERS' FRUIT CAKE

1/2 cup butter or margarine	2 cups all-purpose flour
1/2 cup brown sugar	1/2 teaspoon soda
1/2 cup Rogers Golden Syrup	1 teaspoon cinnamon
3 well-beaten eggs	1/2 teaspoon allspice
1/2 cup ground almonds	1/2 teaspoon mace
1/2 cup chopped almonds	1/2 teaspoon cloves
6 tablespoons orange juice
1/2 cup chopped dark raisins
1/2 cup chopped light raisins
1/2 cup chopped dried fruit (cherries, citron, orange, etc.)

The day before baking, sprinkle chopped fruit with 4 tablespoons of the fruit juice. Leave juice to soak into fruit. Preheat oven to 300°F. Cream butter and sugar. Beat in syrup and eggs. Sprinkle fruit with ground almonds. Sift flour, soda and spices. Sprinkle fruit with enough spiced flour to make a dry mixture you can handle with your fingers. Add spiced flour to butter mixture alternately with 2 tablespoons fruit juice. Fold in floured fruit and chopped almonds. Bake about 2 hours in a six-inch pan 2 1/2 to 3 inches deep (middle sized Christmas cake pan).

NOTE: Line pan with several thicknesses of greased brown paper or with foil. Fasten a jacket of brown paper, cardboard or newspaper around cake pan to help cake bake evenly.

DIVINITY FUDGE

2 1/2 cups granulated sugar	1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup Rogers Golden Syrup	Few drops almond extract
1/2 cup hot water	1/2 cup chopped nuts, or preserved ginger
2 egg whites, stiffly beaten

Boil sugar, ROGERS' GOLDEN SYRUP, and water to 234-240°F, or until mixture forms soft ball when tested in cold water. Beating continually, pour 1/2 this hot syrup over stiff egg whites; blend well. Return remaining syrup to heat and boil to hard ball stage (235-265°F). Slowly pour over egg whites. Beat well and when thickening add flavorings, nuts or ginger. Pour into greased pan to harden.

BUTTER-PECAN CARAMEL-FUDGE

1 tin of condensed milk	1/2 cup butter
2 cups brown sugar (well packed)	1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup Rogers Golden Syrup	100 pecan pieces

Stir first four ingredients together and place on medium heat. Stir until boiling. Reduce heat and continue stirring for 10 minutes. You will notice the color change to rich caramel as you stir. From time to time the candy may stick a little and you will notice brown bits but do not worry—they enhance the flavor. Continue stirring. After 10 minutes of boiling remove from heat. Add vanilla. It will take approximately 10 minutes to beat the candy to the right thickness. Pour into the buttered pan and place the pecans firmly on top. Cool. Cut in squares with a sharp knife.

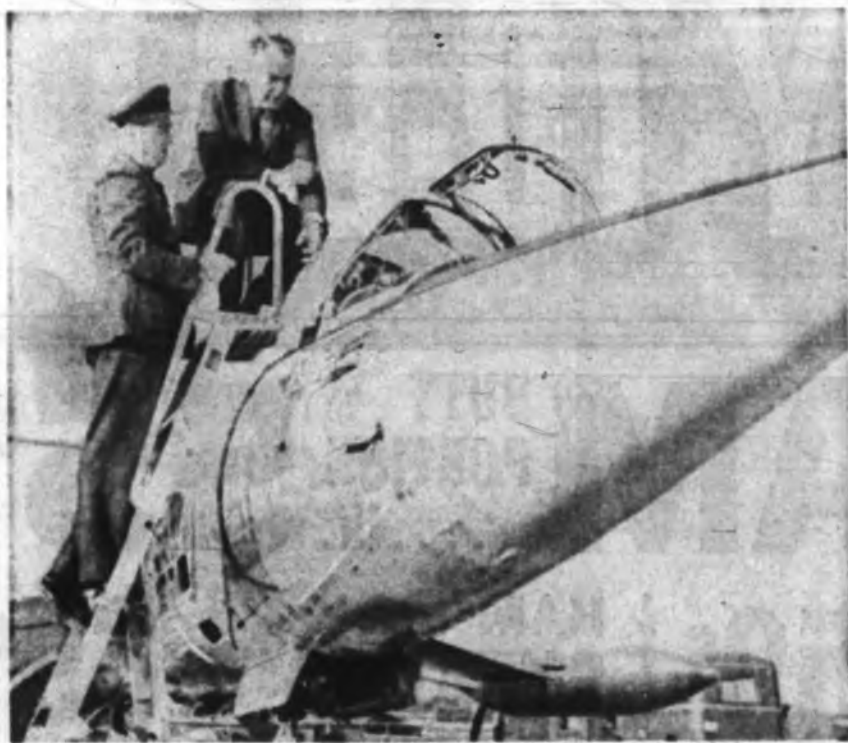

ROGERS' CHOCOLATE SUNDAE SAUCE

1/2 cup cocoa	1/2 cup Rogers Golden Syrup
1/2 cup water	1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup granulated sugar

Cook cocoa and water over low heat until well blended, stirring often. Add sugar. Boil 2 minutes. Add syrup and vanilla. Bring back to a boil. Remove from heat. Add vanilla. Delicious on ice cream.

New Job in Europe

RCAF Flies 'Bullet'

By DON GAIN
Colonist Military Reporter

Canada's NATO air division is changing its role from air defence to strike reconnaissance with the government's 1959 decision to switch from Sabre jet day fighters to the CF-104 Starfighter, a "manned missile" capable of speeds of 1,400 miles an hour.

The change of role is still being carried out and will become complete by next year.

Last month in France and Germany I saw these aircraft in the air and on the ground.

Like Bullets

The aircraft look like missiles, like bullets, in fact, and appear to travel almost that fast. They don't, of course.

"But if a Starfighter took off from Ottawa at dawn flying non-stop to Vancouver, it would beat the sun to the West Coast," Sqdn. Ldr. Reginald Sheard told me.

He is the senior aircraft engineering officer at 2 Wing, RCAF, Grostenquin, France, and is the son of Mrs. Frances Sheard, 1163 Fort.

Gordon Gave No Assurance To Car Firm

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Gordon said in the Commons Wednesday he personally gave no assurance to Studebaker Corporation that the present discount on the Canadian dollar in U.S. funds will be maintained.

He could not say whether anyone else in Ottawa gave such an assurance.

R. G. L. Fairweather (PC-Royal) raised the question, quoting Studebaker of Canada President Gordon E. Grundy as saying the corporation had received "limited assurances" the 92½-cent value of the Canadian dollar in U.S. funds would be maintained.

Studebaker has announced it will move all its auto production to its Canadian subsidiary.

As I climbed up to look in the cockpit, he gave me some facts on the over-size "bullet."

Designed by Lockheed Aircraft Corp. in the U.S., the Starfighter is designated the CF-104 in the Canadian-made version and its airframe is made by Canadian Ltd., Montreal. Its engine is made by Orenda Engines Ltd., Malton.

This engine is the J-79 powerplant which delivers 15,000 pounds of thrust and has propelled the Mach 2 Starfighter through nine world records.

Speed-Climb

They are the altitude record of 91,243 feet May 7, 1958; the speed record of 1,404.09 miles an hour May 17, 1958, and seven speed-to-climb records.

The RCAF's model of the Starfighter is designed for low-level reconnaissance and decisive offensive strikes.

A unique fire control system suits it to this strike attack role. It can be armed with a variety of air-to-ground weapons.

While the specific weapons are classified, the aircraft can carry a variety.

Low-Level

This includes nuclear and high explosive bombs, Side-winder missiles, guns and rockets. A self-contained navigation system directs the aircraft to its destination during low-level missions.

Sqdn. Ldr. Sheard pointed to a D-ring located on the floor of the aircraft between the pilot's feet.

"In an emergency, if he has to eject himself, all he has to do is pull that ring," he said. "From that point on, everything is automatic."

The canopy is ejected, he said, and metal stirrups pull the pilot's feet close to his body and hold them securely.

Rube Goldberg

"It's like a Rube Goldberg cartoon," he said. "Knee guards rotate into position to prevent leg spreading and to counteract the effect of outward airloads. An arm support webbing flaps up to prevent outward movement of the arms."

"Then the seat and pilot are shot upward 200 feet from the aircraft and the post-ejection sequence begins automatically."

Workers Reject Walkout

B.C. employees of Mc and Mc have voted 71 per cent against authorizing their union to call a strike in its contract dispute with the company.

H. B. R. Kirkpatrick, vice-president and general manager of McLennan, McFeely and Prior, hardware wholesalers, said in Vancouver last night employees in the firm's Vancouver warehouse have voted two-to-one against authorizing a strike, making the overall vote 71 per cent against.

Counting of ballots from about 60 warehouse employees had been held up pending a labor relations board decision on disputed ballots.

OPPOSED HERE

Victoria employees had voted 7-5 against a strike. Mr. Kirkpatrick implied the company regards the result of the strike vote as, in effect, acceptance by the employees of the company's latest offer.

Record Holder

This means the lap belt is released, the foot retention cables are severed and the pilot-seat separation begins.

As I climbed down from the cockpit I felt the leading edge of the wing. I had to remove a felt-lined wooden guard before I did.

Knife Edge

This prevents aircraft technicians from cutting themselves on the knife-like edge.

The wings, only seven feet long, are so thin you can hardly see them at certain angles, but they carry a load of more than a ton per square foot.

Including the width of the fuselage the wings have a span of 21 feet, 11 inches.

The wings, unlike most conventional jet fighters, do not go through the fuselage but are fastened to it by five rings. The cockpit is well forward in the fuselage just behind the nose which tapers to a needle-sharp point.

Four Areas

Four NATO countries in Europe will build and fly the Starfighter — Germany, Italy, Belgium and Holland.

October, 1962, marked the 10th anniversary of the RCAF Air Division in Europe.

A decade ago the first Sabre jet aircraft arrived at 2 Wing, Grostenquin, to help defend Western Europe.

But that role is now a thing of the past. With the CF-104 the emphasis is on reconnaissance and striking power.

Perrault

Nuclear Plant In B.C.?

VANCOUVER (CP) — Ray Perrault, B.C. Liberal party leader, said Wednesday a $30,000,000 heavy water plant, proposed for Nova Scotia, could end up in B.C.'s Peace River district.

Mr. Perrault said he had spoken by telephone with B.C. representatives in Ottawa.

FAR FROM SETTLED

"The heavy water situation is far from being resolved in favor of Nova Scotia," he said.

"A new, more economical process is being claimed by one of Canada's major oil companies. Because it is based on the use of natural gas as a heat source, the Peace River area could be the location if the process proves commercially feasible.

PROCESS PROVED

"At present, a decision on location is being withheld while the new process is being evaluated by the engineers and scientists of Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd."

If the process meets the standards claimed, Mr. Perrault said, there was "an excellent chance" the $30,000,000 heavy-water plant would be built in B.C. The well-head price for natural gas in B.C.'s Peace River country is lower than in most places of Alberta.

Power Plans

Alberta Eyes Peace

EDMONTON (CP) — Canadian Utilities Ltd. is studying long-range power development plans for the Peace River district in Alberta that may eventually involve expenditures up to $47,000,000, President J. C. Dale said in an interview Tuesday.

Mr. Dale said current annual requirements in the area are 30,000 kilowatts, increasing by 10 to 12 per cent annually. The average provincial increase is approximately 8 per cent.

MORE BY '65

He predicted operating sources will suffice until 1965-66, when new sources will become necessary. A province-wide power grid will encompass Peace River sources next year, Mr. Dale said.

Canadian Utilities engineers are undertaking detailed studies, focusing their attention on the Kakwa River site, the 18th baseline site on the Smoky River and the Watino site, also on the Smoky River.

NEEDS GOVERN SITE

Selection of a site will be governed by load requirements and anticipated necessity for future development, Mr. Dale said.

Mr. Dale said development of Peace River Mining and Smelting Ltd.'s plans for its low-grade Peace River iron ore deposits would be the signal for large-scale hydro power development, unless Peace River planned to supply power for its own operations. The Peace River Mining and Smelting development is estimated at $35,000,000.

Pulp Plan Lauded By Alcan

VANCOUVER (CP) — Steps toward establishing a pulpwood industry in the Kitimat region were welcomed Wednesday by the Aluminum Company of Canada Ltd. — Kitimat's founder.

Alcan issued a statement saying the decision of MacMillan, Bloedel & Powell River Ltd. to apply for a tree-farm licence and a pulp-harvesting licence in the Kitimat area gives the aluminum firm "great satisfaction."

The statement said Alcan's primary object is to produce aluminum, not to enter the pulp and lumber business.

It added: "Alcan does, however, aspire to make available to the forest products industry the outstanding facilities in land, port site, power, power supply, construction camps and municipal services which were created at Kitimat through heavy investment and strenuous effort."

Financial arrangements are still subject to negotiations, Alcan said. Sufficient power could be made available to support a pulpwood project without restricting plans for expansion of aluminum smelting capacity at Kitimat.

Challenge Hurlled

PARIS (Reuters)—Gen. Andre Puget, president of Sud-Aviation, has challenged Gordon McGregor, head of Trans-Canada Air Lines, to "confirm or deny" derogatory remarks he was reported to have made to a Canadian parliamentary committee about the Caravelle jet airliner and its maker, Sud-Aviation.

A communique Wednesday night said the French company's attempts to obtain a full text of McGregor's remarks had so far been fruitless.

IN ANY WAY

It said that since McGregor has not in any way denied the remarks attributed to him "there is reason to consider them to have been made."

"However, the president of Sud-Aviation asks Mr. McGregor whether he confirms or denies the whole or some of his remarks, which could have been distorted," the communique said.

DEFENDS PLANE

Pending McGregor's reply the company hotly defended the Caravelle for the benefit of French and international opinion and declared it to be still "in the vanguard of progress while benefiting from the unequalled experience of 800,000 flying hours carried out by 22 air transport companies."

On the question of the plane's safety, Sud-Aviation said, McGregor is reported to have pronounced "a judgment which is entirely and absolutely false."

PAPERS REPORTED

French papers reported McGregor as saying the twin-jet Caravelle was "obsolete" and with "a heavy record of serious accidents."

Others linked his reported preference for the yet-unbuilt

American Douglas DC-9 twin-jet airliner with rivalries between English-speaking and French-speaking Canadians.

In Montreal, Mr. McGregor declined to comment on the Sud-Aviation statement.

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons Wednesday postponed action for one week on 13 motions by Creditiste House Leader Gilles Giguere for the publication of technical documents relating to TCA's decision to purchase the Douglas DC-9 jet aircraft. State Secretary Pickerskill said he needs more time to consult Transport Minister McIlraith and Industry Minister Drury about the motions.

The Gifts of Christmas

The spirit of giving is particularly present in the Christmas season and the 15-episode series, "The Gifts of Christmas," is an interpretation of 15 classic and eternal gifts of Biblical history. Written by a lay author and university professor, the stories are non-denominational and have been approved by clergy of all faiths.

The Gift of God

By JOHN J. STEWART
First of a Series

With heavy heart old Father Abraham plodded his way up Mount Moriah, his little son Isaac by his side: Isaac, dearer to him than life itself. And now God had commanded him to offer Isaac as a sacrifice.

As they walked along together, carrying a knife, a stick of fire, and a cord of wood, the puzzled boy asked his father, "Where is the lamb for a burnt offering?"

The trusting lad's question pierced deep into Abraham's tortured soul. Tears flooded the old man's eyes. "My son, God will provide Himself a lamb for a burnt offering."

Quickly the anguished father built the sacrificial altar, laid his protesting son upon it and raised the knife high to slay him. But at that moment, having proved his faithfulness and obedience even in so great a test, Abraham was released by God from the demand to sacrifice his son.

Yet God Himself suffered that which He spared Abraham. To satisfy the demand of eternal justice, to redeem a world fallen into sin, God offered as a sacrifice His first-born and beloved Son, Jesus, His only begotten in the flesh.

"Behold the Lamb of God."

Into a world of sin and sorrow did He have Him come, born in lowly circumstance, to descend below all things: Jesus the Christ, the one perfect Being, who alone could atone for the sins of man.

"For God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life."

Even would the Father see Him hang upon the cross. "Behold my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased."

This supreme gift did a loving Father give to His children, that they—might have the privilege of eternal life. This was the first great gift of Christmas.

Lost Trappers Found by Indians

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)—Two trappers, missing since Dec. 1 in the treacherous country around Philip Lake in the Fort St. James area, were found Wednesday, exhausted, cold and hungry but otherwise well.

Paul Antoine and Frank Peter Dennis were found by two Indian trappers who set out on their trail.

TURNT BACK
The trappers said the men had given up hope and had turned back to their cabin when only 400 yards from a road that would have led them out of the wilderness.

The men, unfamiliar with the area, knew of the road but not its exact location.

The two had been the object of an intensive air-ground search—including a snowmobile—since they failed to rendezvous with a plane that was to have picked them up at Philip Lake Dec. 1.

LOST WAY
Police said the trappers decided to walk out without waiting for the plane and lost their way. They said they did not know why the men had waited for the plane.

They will be flown back to Fort St. James, 75 miles northwest of here.

RIVER PACT PRICE SET?

OTTAWA (CP)—Columbia River negotiators have agreed on a report to be submitted to the Canadian, British Columbia and United States governments, it was announced Wednesday night at the end of a three-day bargaining session.

External Affairs Minister Martin said he agrees with the proposition that if the three governments accept this report—which mainly concerns a U.S. purchase price for a big block of power—then the way is cleared for a start on the multi-million-dollar hydro and flood-control project.

PRESS STATEMENT
A press statement said: "The discussions dealt with several major points concerning arrangement for the sale of Canadian downstream (power) benefits for financing the development of the Columbia River in Canada."

"After three days of discussions, during which substantial progress was made, the negotiators are in general agreement on a report that will be submitted now to the governments concerned."

NEXT WEEK
"Working parties are to meet in the course of the next week to draft the necessary documents for consideration at a further meeting of the delegations in Ottawa on Dec. 20."

Mr. Martin, who headed the federal bargaining team, said a lot of highly technical data needs further attention but there was general agreement on the points discussed in the last three days.

PROPOSED PRICE
He declined to reveal what those points are or what the proposed price will be for the planned power sale which would finance three storage dams in B.C., costing more than $400,000,000.

"Price obviously was considered and we are in agreement in the report to be made to the governments," he said.

EQUALLY CAUTIOUS
Lands Minister Ray Williston, who headed the B.C. bargainers and Ivan B. White, minister at the U.S. embassy who was the senior American representative, were equally cautious.

Mr. Williston, answering a question, said his optimism about the Columbia over the years has become diluted but

NAIROBI (Reuters)—Kenya became independent today after 68 years of British rule.

The Union Jack was lowered at 12:01 a.m. and the country's new flag, green, red and white, was hoisted in its place.

The flag-raising ceremony, held in independence climaxed three hours of celebrations staged before 250,000 persons in Independence Stadium four miles from downtown Nairobi.

EVERY CORNER
The festivities began with a massed display of tribal dancing. More than 1,200 dancers from every corner of Kenya, who had been preparing for months for the occasion, provided a fantastic panorama of color, movement and sound in the flood-lit arena.

Part of the dancing had to be

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Frank Sinatra Jr., looking tense and drawn, told a press conference Wednesday he was scared but treated well throughout his

The 19-year-old singer, released Wednesday morning after his father paid a $240,000 ransom, declined to discuss details.

He said he must keep silent until the FBI complete questioning him.

WASNT HARMED
With his mother at his side but his father not present, he said in response to questions: "I feel fine... I seem to be in fairly good health... I wasn't harmed at all."

At one point he turned to his mother, Mrs. Nancy Sinatra, and said: "Mother, don't cry." Sinatra added: "... When I walked from that freeway (where he was released) I was so exhausted that I just kind of passed out... decomposed slowly."

AT GUNPOINT
Young Sinatra was abducted at gunpoint Sunday night from a snowstorm and released from a car at about 2:30 a.m. Wednesday not far from his mother's home here.

The FBI and police in California and Nevada cities launched a massive manhunt for the kidnappers. The hunt had been relaxed during delicate ransom talks.

"Now they're on their own," said Sinatra. "No deal was made to protect them."

Sinatra Sr. dealt with the kidnappers himself, working out

EARTH GULPS MEN, HOMES

ST. JOACHIM DE TOURELLE, Que. (CP)—Four brothers were killed Wednesday when an earth movement swallowed three houses, knocked out a concrete highway bridge and sent four other houses into the St. Lawrence River, police said.

Cave-In Body Recovered

BELLEVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Rescuers Wednesday night recovered the body of one of two men believed buried for nearly seven hours under a tumbled concrete wall.

The dead man was identified as Patrick Black, about 24, of Belleville. Still missing is Douglas Cronkright, also of Belleville.

54-hour kidnap ordeal.

Const. Martin Gauthier said a hole about a half square mile opened in the earth and a truck and car fell into a pit "150 feet deep."

The truck disappeared but rescuers took a man and a woman out of the pit with ropes. They had been in the car.

Gauthier said three houses had fallen into the pit and like the truck were covered with thick grey mud.

SEA OF MUD
The top of one of the houses could be seen.

Gauthier said the Tourmelle Creek became a sea of mud and carried four more houses into the St. Lawrence River.

Fishermen in three boats rescued at least six people from the houses. It was believed there were no lives lost in the houses.

Officials said an expert called to the area after a barn was swallowed up last summer indicated there was an underground lake.

The 30-foot bridge spanned a creek about 1,000 feet from the big river.

Country-of-Origin Legislation Pressed

WASHINGTON (CP)—Canadian origin on all imports each time the products are repackaged for sale in the U.S.

The bill goes before the Senate and House for final approval—in this case a technicality—before it is placed before President Johnson for implementation.

He will have 10 days to exercise a veto if he so desires, starting the day he receives the legislation. A similar bill, without the lumber attachment, was vetoed by former president Eisenhower in 1960.

'Restrictive' Law Would Hit Canada

VANCOUVER (CP)—Proposed American legislation requiring a country-of-origin marking on lumber imports would cause a general rise in the price of all lumber in the United States, a spokesman for a major Canadian forest industries firm said Wednesday.

E. G. Shorter, vice-chairman of MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Limited, described the bill as restrictive legislation aimed specifically at Canadian lumber.

In a statement, he said the legislation could have a most serious impact on exports of Canadian lumber to the U.S.

Real Andy Capp the Best

He has never come within winking distance of a kitchen sink. He has been known to blow smoke in the face of a snooker opponent about to pot the black. He flings a look of acute disinterest at any tradesman arriving with a bill — and points to his missus.

Reginald Smythe, born 46 years ago in a tiny terraced house in Hartlepool, is a slight, wiry, goodie-brimming character, confidence and cussed charm.

He is also creator of Andy Capp.

Six years ago Reg broke his holiday in Hartlepool, returned to the Mirror office in London and drew the first Andy, a left-handed (like Reg himself), pot-bellied layabout, belligerent spokesman for Britain's new leisure class.

Boozy, broke and lovable, Andy has become the nation's most successful cartoon export. He appears in 170 newspapers in 31 countries and 13 languages.

Admired by fellow artists as much as he is loved by the millions who follow him from Istanbul to Baltimore, Reg Smythe has been acclaimed the Feature Cartoonist of the Year by the Cartoonists Club for the third year running.

The Sunday Observer once wrote: "No assessment of the state of Britain is complete without reference to Andy."

This shook Reg as much as it would have astonished Andy. Reg, a simple, kindly man, who hasn't read a book since Wind in the Willows when he was 10, is brutally candid about himself.

"I didn't know there was any social significance in Andy until the eggheads told me."

REGINALD SMYTHE ... Florrie at home

SIX SPOONS

Reg-never helps around the house. His wife Vera cleans his shoes, lights her own cigarettes and wakes him up with a cup of tea (six teaspoonsful of sugar).

Vera, a jolly extrovert from Hull, Reg's pen-pal for six years before they met, says: "I see to all the bills and business side of the house."

"I'm a Florrie, I suppose, and I'm not so sure that most of us women don't want to be, either."

ANCIENT VIEWS

Reg's views of marriage date back to the Neolithic Age.

"I believe," he says, "in the idea of the man being the hunter, going out to get the food and clothes for the family."

"There's one thing you can say about Andy—he never ignores Florrie. He is more aware of her than most people who say they are happily married."

WHITE SHEEP

Reg's capacity for drink, though, would make Andy contemptuously regard him as teetotal.

"I'm the white sheep of the family," Reg says. "After three halves I'm full. I drink gin and tonic and when I come from that's dead as a doan."

Every two months Reg returns to the grey, terraced streets he hung around as a youth.

AND LISTEN

"I go for the dialogue," he explains, "I go to the pubs, the dogs, places where Andy would be. And listen."

Reg left elementary school at 14 ("I was too thick for a secondary education"). He began work as a grocer's errand boy at 14. A week, bettered himself by another tanner as a butcher's boy and was flung on the dole at 16.

After two years hanging around the streets, he escaped from the depression into the Northumberland Fusiliers.

HAD NO TRADE

"I was dead worried when I was demobbed at the end of the war," Reg says, "I had no trade. I wasn't even working-class because I had never worked."

While working as a temporary clerk at the Post Office he began drawing. He doesn't know why. He'd never had a lesson in his life.

When he took some drawing to a London advertising

Twin Has Organs Transposed And None Knows the Reason

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: I have "ataxia inversa," my internal organs being transposed or on the wrong side.

About 25 doctors have examined me in the last few years, mostly out of curiosity. They were all amazed and some didn't believe my heart beats on the right side.

How often does this occur? What causes it? I am a fraternal twin. Does this have anything to do with it?—N. V.

Yours is a very rare condition—heart on the right side, liver on the left, and so on.

Being a twin seems to have some bearing, but nobody knows exactly why. Left-handedness is one possibility that has been observed. A clockwise (reverse) hair whorl is another.

It is a developmental quirk, and that's about as good an explanation as we have.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a 12-year-old boy who was the bed every night unless I get him up, and sometimes he does anyway. A pediatrician said he will not grow if I have also been told to give him powdered rosin and salt-peter mixed with sugar every night until he stops. Do you recommend this?—MRS. L. T.

No! There is no reason why such a mixture would help. It might be harmful, besides being a foul-tasting concoction. Your son has some urinary condition, or else a psychological quirk of some sort.

Dear Dr. Molner: In our family living class we were studying syphilis and gonorrhea and were stumped by one question: Do these diseases have any relation to cancer? Could they become cancerous in time?—G.C.

No, there is no relationship to cancer. But they do enough damage otherwise to require immediate treatment. In time, syphilis in particular can cause damage to various organs of the body, the heart and the brain being notable examples.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is drinking of milk from one's own tested cows safe enough without pasteurization?—MRS. G. S.

No. Always pasteurize. Why? Because a herd that is perfect today may not be safe tomorrow. Tuberculosis, I agree, is not likely to appear overnight, but there has to be some time at which the change from "safe" to "not safe" occurs.

And that isn't the only risk. Typhoid germs can occur because, in some way, the herd encounters impure food or water. Brucellosis (causing infectious abortion in cattle, and undulant fever in humans) is still another risk.

"Let's not leave it 'til Christmas Eve"

The timely delivery of greetings is important. So, right here and now, we wish you all the Joy and Happiness at Christmas and Success in the New Year.

Historic Appeal Begins in Nanaimo

White and Indian spectators crowd public gallery in Nanaimo court house before opening of appeal.

NANAIMO—The appeal of Clifford White and David Bob, Nanoose Indians convicted on a charge of being in possession of deer carcasses out of season earlier this year, opened before Judge A. J. H. Swensky of Vancouver in County Court here yesterday.

The case which drew a full gallery could establish a precedent for all Canadian Indians, and settle once and for all their right to hunt and fish for food at any time.

The Indians were convicted and fined $100 or 40 days by magistrate Lionel Bevoir-Potts Sept. 25.

DOUGLAS TREATY

At that time they brought up as their defence a treaty signed by Governor James Douglas giving the Indians the right to hunt and fish over unoccupied territory.

The magistrate ruled the treaty did not apply to the case and it is against this ruling and their convictions that White and Bob are appealing.

ATTEMPT MADE

Crown Counsel Don Cunliffe opened the case for the Crown with an attempt to have the appeal declared a constitutional matter which would have to be brought to the attention of the attorney-general of B.C. and Canada. Judge Swensky ruled it was under the jurisdiction of the court.

Defence lawyer Tom Berger of Vancouver called Dr. Willard Ireland, provincial archivist.

FULL TITLE

Dr. Ireland produced a treaty of 1845 which gave full title of Nanaimo lands stretching from Commercial Inlet to 12 miles up the Nanaimo River to the Hudson's Bay Company in return for 636 white blankets, 12 blue blankets and 20 inferior blankets.

This treaty was signed with an "x" by 159 Indians and was endorsed by Governor Douglas and signed by two HBC officials and a representative of the Nanaimo Coal Co.

THREE HOURS

In a summation lasting three hours, Mr. Berger brought up treaties and agreements dating back to 1763.

His line of defence was a proclamation of King George III which defended the right of Indians to hunt and fish over unoccupied lands and which has never been revoked.

Mr. Berger argued that, even if the Nanaimo treaty was not acceptable to the court, the aboriginal title of the Indians entitled them to the use and fruits of the land and to hunt over all unoccupied territories.

He also claimed the proclamation had the effect of a statute, and as this had never been revoked, it must still be in effect. He said the Indian aboriginal title to lands in B.C. had never been extinguished.

FIGURES GIVEN

In evidence it was brought out that the original treaties with the Indians bought lands from the south Island tribes for two pounds, 10 shillings per family and later, lands belonging to the Cowichan, Chemainus and Barkley Sound bands were bought from 1,000 families for three pounds per family or 3,000 pounds sterling.

The hearing was adjourned until Jan. 8, 1964, at 10:30 a.m.

Knife-Death Hearing Told:

Man Left with Victim —Came Back Alone

ALERT BAY (CP)—A fisherman testified Tuesday he drank wine for three hours with the man facing a charge of stabbing a 10-year-old girl the same day.

The girl, Rosalind Wadhams, 10, died in hospital Nov. 13, a week later, of knife wounds. F. G. Clark said the accused man, Robert Bertram Morley, 43, of Alert Bay, got up from the drinking table and left the house with the victim, came back alone 20 minutes later, had another drink of wine and left again.

CAPITAL CHARGE

Clark's testimony came during the first day of a preliminary hearing into the capital murder charge against the hospital orderly.

The hearing was held in the nurses' lounge of St. George's Hospital. Clark said he had seen Morley with a knife in his hand before they began drinking Nov. 6 at the home of Joe Whelan.

ANKLE SOCKS

Charles Hinton said the girl staggered into her home naked except for a pair of ankle socks, and "bathed in blood." RCMP Cpl. James Vincent said a blood-covered raincoat, since identified as that of the victim, was found next door to her home, not far from Morley's own home and not far from the spot where Morley was found apparently unconscious from drink.

The hearing continues.

Conversion Set

Third Mars To Fight Bush Fires

Victoria's Fairley Aviation Ltd. has been awarded a more than $250,000 contract to convert a third Martin Mars flying boat into an aerial fire engine.

The contract was announced yesterday by J. O. Hemmingsen, president of Forest Industries Flying Tankers Ltd., a company owned by a consortium of B.C. timber concerns. The Martin Mars is the largest flying boat ever flown and was used by the U.S. Navy in the Second World War for transporting troops.

LAST FOUR

The last four in existence were purchased by the B.C. firms for use as flying tankers. First of the four to be converted was demolished in a crash near Northwest Bay on Vancouver Island. The crew was killed.

Another was extensively damaged in a storm which swept across Patricia Bay Airport more than a year ago.

The second Mars to be fitted out for forest fire control has operated successfully for two seasons.

B.C. COAST

It and the one now undergoing conversion will both be based on the B.C. coast, Mr. Hemmingsen said.

He said the firm is no longer considering a proposal to send its single operational Mars tanker to Australia for fire-fighting during B.C.'s winter months.

EXTENSIVE USE

The plan was perfectly feasible, he added, but there was a danger that extensive use of the aircraft during Australia's fire season could render it due for overhaul just when it is needed in B.C.

The converted Mars has operated for the past two seasons from the company's flying base at Sproat Lake near Port Alberni.

LAST SUMMER

It was seen by Victorians at regular intervals for a spell last summer when it was used to combat a slash fire near Sooke.

During the fire season the present Mars, operating from its base at Sproat Lake on Vancouver Island, will be joined by the converted Mars.

Island Rural Beef Industry Here But Not an Empire

By KLAUS MUENTER

COWICHAN VALLEY—While Vancouver Island becomes another beef-raising centre? Some experts say yes, but not in the sense of the cattle empires in the Cariboo and Chilcotin areas.

Comparison of figures of cattle population on Vancouver Island give startling evidence. In 1954, a total of 17,298 dairy animals were counted, and the beef population amounted to 1,681 head. Not quite 10 years later, in 1961, the totals shifted considerably, with dairy cattle decreasing to 13,977, and the beef climbing to 11,067 head.

ONE EXPLANATION

One explanation for the drop in the number of dairy cattle is the specialization of dairy operations, which caused small dairy farmers to quit. Yet, with fewer milkers on the Island, more milk is produced.

While the small farmers could not afford to reorganize their operations to meet more rigid government regulations, the bigger operators remained in the business, utilizing the latest research results.

WHAT IS THE CAUSE

What is the cause in this rising of the beef populations, which not only includes the straight beef breeds but crosses between beef and all types of dairy cattle as well? District agriculturist Ken Jameson at Duncan said a number of the smaller dairy operators have swung over to beef-raising, using some of their original milking stock for cross-breeding.

Mr. Jameson said the more valid reason, however, for the beef increase is the beef price, which has been relatively high for the past few years.

ANOTHER FACTOR

Another factor which indicates the swing towards beef is the number of part-time farmers who keep a few head for various reasons.

Although the beef population is high, probably higher than ever in the history of the Island, the possibility of filling the entire beef demand on it is a guess at present, Mr. Jameson says.

THE SECRETARY-MANAGER

The secretary-manager of the Cowichan Artificial Insemination Centre, William Barker, verified the greater demand for beef.

About five years ago the list for services was headed by Jersey, Ayrshire and Guernsey and beef, and now beef is second only to the popular Holstein breed.

The demand for beef grew very rapidly, and each year the amount doubled, said Mr. Barker.

THE CROSSED CALF

The crossbred calf will bring between $25 and $30, and the dairy calf only about half that much.

More and more dairy farmers realize that raising some calves for veal will pay.

THE ONLY REMAINING QUESTION

Is it more profitable to raise the vealer calves from straight dairy stock or cross-breeds—with whole milk from the mother animal—or with a special vealer diet?

Harbor Legislation Delayed in Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—Controversial federal legislation which could affect Nanaimo and Port Alberni harbor commissions has been referred back to a committee for further study.

The measure could place harbor commissions in 10 cities under federal control without allowing their city councils any voice in the matter.

Senators took the unusual step of referring the bill back to the Senate transport committee as a result of objections raised by Hamilton and Ottawa, Ont.

Both cities said they were not satisfied with amendments made to the bill last week by the committee, one of which excluded Toronto from its provisions.

FIRST DEBATED

Objections to the bill were originally voiced by Toronto, Hamilton and Ottawa when it first was debated by the committee Oct. 30.

The measure provides machinery under which some 300 local harbors in Canada could be placed under harbor commissions in which the federal cabinet would appoint the majority of commissioners.

WITH CONSENT

It also included in its original form a provision whereby 11 existing harbor commissions also could be placed under the proposed law with the consent of local harbor commissions.

And commissions set up under individual acts of Parliament, at Toronto, Hamilton, Belleville, Windsor, Oshawa, Lakehead, Winnipeg-St. Boniface and the British Columbia ports of New Westminster, North Fraser Harbor, Port Alberni and Nanaimo could be placed under the law.

Employment Higher In Nanaimo

NANAIMO—Employment was better in Nanaimo this November than during November, 1962. A total of 842 and 302 women were registered for winter work last year, whereas the figure dropped this year to 702 men and 210 women.

Nanaimo Winter Work Committee spokesmen said most municipal authorities had found it possible to participate in the winter works incentive program.

Under this plan labor costs are shared with the municipalities by the federal and provincial governments.

To date, Nanaimo is employing 69 men, Harewood 21, Ladysmith 10 and Qualicum three. Additional work is being carried out on a contract basis by the Greater Nanaimo Water District.

Gas Up Two Cents

Imperial Oil raised its retail gasoline price in the Victoria area two cents yesterday to make the price 49.9 cents for a gallon of regular gasoline.

Stations dispensing other brands of gasoline were still selling at the previous price last night—38.9 cents for brand-name gasoline and 37.9 cents at "unbranded" service stations.

ONE CENT

Imperial gasoline prices at Duncan were raised one cent and prices at Nanaimo were unchanged, to make the price of Imperial regular gasoline 40.9 cents a gallon in all three centres.

"For some time pump prices at Victoria and Duncan have been at a depressed level—the lowest reached in many years," a spokesman for Imperial Oil said in Vancouver last night.

ECONOMIC LEVEL

"This is an attempt to get to a more economic level," he said the move had no connection with the coming hearings of the provincial royal commission on gasoline prices.

Gasoline prices reached their low level some months ago in a gasoline price war which forced Victoria area service station operators into selling gasoline on a "consignment" basis—as agents for the oil companies—rather than buying from the oil companies and reselling.

Order for the price increase reached Victoria service stations yesterday morning.

Port Alberni Housewife Finds Sculpting Talent

By MARGARET TREBETT

PORT ALBERNI—Seven children, three of them under school age, haven't prevented a Port Alberni housewife from exercising her particular talent.

In fact, two of her little girls have been useful as models as Hazel Koenders, 812 Ninth Avenue North, follows her interest in sculpting.

Promoted

Roman Catholic padre at RCAF Station Comox, Rev. H. M. Thomas, has been promoted to the rank of squadron leader. Rev. Thomas joined the RCAF in 1938, after attending St. John's College, Edmonton, and Sacred Heart Seminary, Lebreton, Sask.

For Unemployed

Course Needs Teacher

PORT ALBERNI—Difficulty in finding a qualified teacher was reported when members of Alberni Valley Winter Employment Committee discussed plans for a special adult education course.

A six-month course designed to upgrade unemployed persons to qualify them for vocational courses was first suggested by the committee last spring. Co-operation of District 70 school board was obtained and adult education director Jindra Kulich has been working on the project.

James S. Speedie, special placement officer with the National Employment Service here, reported that three applications had been received but none were from registered teachers. He said the applicants will be considered as instructors for certain courses, but the search is being continued for a teacher with a certificate.

He said that other B.C. offices of the employment service had been circulated without results.

Mr. Speedie announced also that there is possibility of a waitress training course being held here next June under District 70's adult education program.

'Bay' Robbed

VANCOUVER (CP)—A bandit pretending to be armed with a gun escaped Tuesday afternoon with about $60 from the downtown Hudson's Bay department store. The man made his escape through crowds of Christmas shoppers.

A head of her daughter, Ruth, now nearly six, was the first real piece of sculpture she produced. It was a good likeness and inspired her to do more.

At the show put on last week by Alberni Valley Art Group and the Pottery Club, Mrs. Koenders' demonstration of her technique and the display of her work attracted considerable attention.

She started to work with clay two years ago when she joined the local potters' group, learning to operate the wheel and absorbing elementary facts about the material. Her husband used an old washing machine to build her a wheel of her own.

MADE CHESS SET

After she had made a set of chessmen for her eldest son, Mrs. Koenders was off on a modelling spree and began losing interest in the wheel. Now her husband has made a stand on which she works on her models.

With homemade equipment and clay for the taking, her hobby is far from expensive. The Koenders family went on an expedition to China Creek about six miles from the city, recently, and dug enough clay to keep mother supplied for the winter.

Washed, dried and screened, it is ready to be mixed fresh for each project.

Mrs. Koenders has not yet had a lesson in sculpting. She has experimented, read borrowed books and hopes some day to have instruction.

Meantime, those who see her work are impressed with her ability to achieve likenesses, particularly in the shaping of the heads.

"She has a definite flair," a member of the art group said. "We think she should devote her time to sculpture."

Mrs. Koenders agrees and she is ready to spend all her time at the modelling stand, excepting, of course, for the time that is required to care for one-year-old Allan and the other six in her flock.

The Gifts of Christmas

The spirit of giving is particularly present in the Christmas season and the 11-episode series, "The Gifts of Christmas," is an interpretation of 10 classic and eternal gifts of Biblical history. Written by a lay author and university professor, the stories are non-denominational and have been approved by clergy of all faiths.

The Gift of God

By JOHN J. STEWART
First of a Series

With heavy heart old Father Abraham plodded his way up Mount Moriah, his little son Isaac by his side. Isaac, dearer to him than life itself. And now God had commanded him to offer Isaac as a sacrifice.

As they walked along together, carrying a knife, a stick of fire, and a cord of wood, the puzzled boy asked his father, "Where is the lamb for a burnt offering?"

The trusting lad's question pierced deep into Abraham's tortured soul. "Tears flooded the old man's eyes. 'My son, God will provide Himself a lamb for a burnt offering.'"

Quickly the anguished father built the sacrificial altar, laid his protesting son upon it and raised the knife high to slay him. But at that moment, having proved his faithfulness and obedience even in so great a test, Abraham was released by God from the command to sacrifice his son.

Yet God Himself suffered that which He spared Abraham. To satisfy the demand of eternal justice, to redeem a world fallen into sin, God offered as a sacrifice His first-born and beloved Son, Jesus, His only begotten in the flesh.

"Behold the Lamb of God."

Into a world of sin and sorrow did He have Him come, born in lowly circumstance, to descend below all things: Jesus the Christ, the one perfect Being, who alone could atone for the sins of man.

"For God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life."

Even would the Father see Him hang upon the cross. "Behold my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased."

This supreme gift did a loving Father give to His children, that they—each—might have the privilege of eternal life. This was the first great gift of Christmas.

Lost Trappers Found by Indians

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)—The men, unfamiliar with the area, knew of the road but not its exact location. The two had been the object of an intensive air-ground search—including a snowmobile—since they failed to rendezvous with a plane that was to have picked them up at Philip Lake Dec. 1.

Paul Antoine and Frank Peter Dennis were found by two Indian trappers who set out on their trail.

TURNED BACK

The trappers said the men had given up hope and had turned back to their cabin when only 400 yards from a road that would have led them out of the wilderness.

The men, unfamiliar with the area, knew of the road but not its exact location. The two had been the object of an intensive air-ground search—including a snowmobile—since they failed to rendezvous with a plane that was to have picked them up at Philip Lake Dec. 1.

Police said the trappers decided to walk out without waiting for the plane and lost their way. They said they did not know why the men had not waited for the plane.

They will be flown back to Fort St. James, 75 miles north-west of here.

RIVER PACT PRICE SET?

OTTAWA (CP)—Columbia River negotiators have agreed on a report to be submitted to the Canadian, British Columbia and United States governments, it was announced Wednesday night at the end of a three-day bargaining session.

External Affairs Minister Martin said he agrees with the proposition that if the three governments accept this report—which mainly concerns a U.S. purchase price for a big block of power—then the way is cleared for a start on the multi-million-dollar hydro and flood-control project.

A press statement said: "The discussions dealt with several major points concerning arrangement for the sale of Canadian downstream (power) benefits for financing the development of the Columbia River in Canada."

"After three days of discussions, during which substantial progress was made, the negotiators are in general agreement on a report that will be submitted now to the governments concerned."

NEXT WEEK

"Working parties are to meet in the course of the next week to draft the necessary documents for consideration at a further meeting of the delegations in Ottawa on Dec. 20."

Mr. Martin, who headed the federal bargaining team, said a lot of highly technical data needs further attention but there was general agreement on the points discussed in the last three days.

PROPOSED PRICE

He declined to reveal what those points are or what the proposed price will be for the planned power sale which would finance three storage dams in B.C., costing more than $400,000,000.

"Price obviously was considered and we are in agreement in the report to be made to the governments," he said.

EQUALLY CAUTIOUS

Lands Minister Ray Williston, who headed the B.C. bargaining team, and Ivan B. White, minister at the U.S. embassy who was the senior American representative, were equally cautious.

Mr. Williston, answering a question, said his optimism about the Columbia over the years has become diluted but

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Frank Sinatra Jr., looking tense and drawn, told a press conference Wednesday he was scared but treated well throughout his 54-hour kidnap ordeal.

The 19-year-old singer, released Wednesday morning after his father paid a $210,000 ransom, declined to discuss details.

He said he must keep silent until the FBI completes questioning him.

Young Sinatra appeared in front of his mother's Bel-Air mansion here to talk to a throng of more than 100 reporters who had waited all day for direct word from him.

With his mother at his side but his father not present, he said in response to questions: "I feel fine... I seem to be in fairly good health... I wasn't harmed at all."

At one point he turned to his mother, Mrs. Nancy Sinatra, and said: "Mother, don't cry."

Sinatra added: "... When I walked from that freeway (where he was released) I was so exhausted that I just kind of passed out... decomposed slowly."

Young Sinatra was abducted at gunpoint Sunday night into a snowstorm and released from a car at about 2:30 a.m. Wednesday not far from his mother's home here.

PIT GULPS FOUR MEN

ST. JOACHIM DE TOURELLE, Que. (CP)—Four brothers were killed Wednesday when an earth movement swallowed three houses, knocked out a concrete highway bridge and sent four other houses into the St. Lawrence River, police said.

Cave-In Body Recovered

BELLEVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Rescuers Wednesday night recovered the body of one of two men believed buried for nearly seven hours under a sewer trench cave-in.

The dead man was identified as Patrick Black, about 24, of Belleville. Still missing is Douglas Cronkright, also of Belleville.

Const. Martin Gauthier said a hole about a half square mile opened in the earth and a truck and a car fell into a pit "150 feet deep."

The truck disappeared but rescuers took a man and a woman out of the pit with ropes. They had been in the car.

Gauthier said three houses had fallen into the pit and like the truck were covered with thick grey mud.

SEA OF MUD

The top of one of the houses could be seen.

Gauthier said the Tourneille family lived in a sea of mud and carried four more houses into the St. Lawrence River.

Fishermen in three boats rescued at least six people from the houses. It was believed there were no lives lost in the houses.

Officials said an expert called to the area after a barn was swallowed up last summer indicated there was an underground lake.

Time to Help Is Running Out

Saturday will be the last downtown chance to win a turkey on the Victoria Gun Club Lucky Circle cards and help swell The Daily Colonist Christmas 500 Fund at the same time.

The cards still will be open during the big Christmas turkey shoot of the Victoria Gun Club Dec. 21 and 22 at the club's Metcalfe range.

Downtown cards will be gathered late Saturday and taken to the range, where winners will be decided by the circle on each card with the most pellets in it.

Proceeds from these cards, and from the shoot, will help the 500 Fund to help Greater Victoria's 500 neediest families.

Latest winners of Lucky Circle cards are Hugh McCalm, 807 Leslie; R. Bissenden, 1167 St. David; Hal Wright,
